Lighter, Smaller, Sluggish Cars In Crystal Ball

WASHINGTON (AP) — Our cars will be smaller, lighter and probably too sluggish for the speed jockeys. That's the future of the automobile under President Carter's plan to solve America's energy dilemma.

In unveiling his comprehensive energy program Wednesday night, Carter asked Congress for stringent legislation intended to curtail gasoline consumption.

Under his plan, if Americans don't cut back, gas prices would go up as much as 57 cents a gallon — nearly double — by 1985. Purchasers of 1978 cars that get less than 13 miles per gallon would pay a federal excise tax of $449; that tax would rise to $2,488 by 1985.

Those who buy small cars that get good mileage would be rewarded with cash rebates up to $473.

The plan also has a provision for gas rationing, a step that would be taken in an emergency such as the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

Carter said the penalties can be avoided if conservation is achieved. His solution is to use smaller autos, car and van pools, buses, subways and other public transportation, and drive fewer miles.

Even if Congress approves the controversial legislation, Americans will need a lot of convincing to curb use of their automobiles.

Americans currently make 86 per cent of their trips between cities by car. Only 11 per cent of their trips are by air, and buses, trains and ships account for less than 3 per cent.

Some 53 per cent of commuters in metropolitan areas drive to work alone in their cars; 21 per cent are passengers, and only about 8 per cent use buses, streetcars or subways.

Carter's plan could change these figures.

At the very least, it would boost the price of gasoline seven cents over the next three years because of higher domestic crude oil prices. The first two cent increase would come next January, adding $14 to the average driver's annual gas bill.

The keystone of the message was the 50 cent a gallon standby tax that would be levied over several years if the public fails to heed Carter's plea for energy conservation.

It would be imposed beginning Jan. 2, 1979, if gasoline saving measures fail. The initial tax would be five cents a gallon, on top of the existing four-cent-a-gallon federal tax. The would add $35 to the average driver's annual gas bill.

Regular gas now costs about 60 cents a gallon.

Each year the tax would rise, fall or stay the same, depending on how well consumers did in meeting a gas consumption target. But in no year could it rise or fall more than 5 cents a gallon, and the cumulative amount of taxes could not exceed 50 cents.

The five cent maximum could be imposed in 1979, for example, if total 1978 consumption were one per cent above the target set by the government. The target for 1978 is an average 7.35 million barrels a day, a little above the current level.

After allowing limited increases in gasoline consumption until 1980, Carter's plan calls for gradual reductions from 1980 to 1987, despite an increase in the miles driven.

The switch would eliminate the need for two huge new power plants which the American Electric Power Co., seeking federal financial guarantees, would have built to power the Pike County facility.

But at a White House briefing, a top administration energy official said the new centrifuge plant would be built "in Tennessee or Ohio", and another spokesman later confirmed that this meant the Portsmouth plant may be reassigned to Oak Ridge.

Oak Ridge was slated to lose another big nuclear project, the Clinch River Breeder Reactor which Carter wants to cancel in an international bid to discourage the development of nuclear fuels based on plutonium, a metal easily used to make atomic bombs.

The proposed shift would have not only regional but also business implications.

Bechtel, Goodyear, and Union Carbide Corp., have the most experience in operating gaseous diffusion plants for the federal government, but other companies and groups have expressed interest in jumping into the new gas centrifuge technology and might enlarge the commercial competition for government contracting for such a new plant.

Weather

Warm, moist air will remain over Central Ohio today and the threat of rain will increase as colder air from the Plains moves eastward. Skies will be cloudy and thunderstorms are likely this afternoon as the high temperature is expected to reach the 80s. Showers or thunderstorms are likely tonight with a low in the mid 50s, and it will be rainy and cooler tomorrow with a high in the mid 60s. There is a 50 per cent chance of rain today and a 70 per cent chance tonight and tomorrow. The high Wednesday was 82, while the low last night was 60.

Reluctant Congress Gets Energy Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is passing the job of formulating a tough new energy policy to a Congress that clearly is reluctant to accept the assignment.

Carter laid out his comprehensive energy program to a joint House-Senate session Wednesday night, acknowledging that it would be painful and declaring, "I don't expect much applause."

He didn't get much applause, either. Yet, Democratic congressional leaders vowed to fight hard for the bulk of the program, which calls for conserving energy through higher automobile and fuel prices and taxes. But they conceded the plan faces major opposition.

Carter told Congress that to deal with the nation's energy crisis the lawmakers must approve taxes and price increases on dwindling fuel supplies and must agree to heavy taxes on gas-guzzling automobiles.

His plan for a standby gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon drew the most vigorous criticism. It seemed doomed to an early defeat.

Members of Congress of both parties, deeply split over energy issues, voiced little enthusiasm for the overall package, but many praised Carter for courage in proposing stiff conservation measures.

"I'm going to be leading the charge to do everything possible to put together his program," said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, which will handle most of the President's proposals.

But Jackson added that he sees little likelihood of Carter's gas tax proposal passing Congress. And he predicted major modifications would be made in the President's oil pricing recommendations.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill also expressed reservations about the gasoline tax but vowed full support for the President's program, adding that Carter knows "this is his first major fight.... This is a battle."

And Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia claimed "the problem of supply was not addressed at all" by the President.

But noting that Congress still hasn't seen details of Carter's specific legislation, which will be submitted on Monday, Byrd cautioned, "We shouldn't shoot from the hip.... Much will depend on acceptance by the American people."

House Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona said Carter talked too much about conservation and not enough about encouraging more energy production. "It was a message addressed to no growth and I don't think that will satisfy the country at all," he said.

Carter told Congress he wants to conserve energy by making gas-guzzling automobiles, gasoline, oil and natural gas more expensive.

He asked for authority to impose a

Lutz Named To OU-L Council

BENIS LUTZ

The Ohio University Board of Trustees made three new appointments and one renewal appointment to the Regional Coordinating Council of the university's Lancaster campus.

Those appointed and their terms are Elaine Barber, six years; Benis Lutz, eight years; and Willard Smith, nine years. Mary P. Smith received a renewal appointment of nine years.

The appointments were made by the trustees following their January resolution to increase membership on the coordinating councils for each of OU's regional campuses. Membership on each council was expanded from nine to 11 to permit broader representation and a strengthening of the regional concept of the campuses.

Mrs. Barber is enrolled in classes at OU-Lancaster. She has served on the Women's Planning Group Committee at Lancaster and been a member of the Student Publications Board at OU-Lancaster.

Lutz is superintendent of Teays Valley Local School District in Ashville. He is a member and past president of the Ashville Kiwanis Club, a member of the Ashville Community Club and a lay speaker and chairman of the administrative board of the United Methodist Church.

Smith, an OU graduate, is manager for public relations of the Diamond Power Specialty Corp. in Lancaster. He is a member and past president of both the Lancaster Jaycees and the Rotary Club. He served two terms on the city council and is a member of the Fairfield County Regional Planning Commission.

No Help For Ohio In Carter's Plan?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov James A. Rhodes said Wednesday night President Carter's national energy plan contains almost no elements aimed at increasing fuel supplies for Ohio, one of the states hit hardest last winter by the energy shortage.

"We have large energy reserves in this country, and in Ohio, and they must be developed while we are asking people to conserve," Rhodes said in a statement issued after Carter presented his energy program to Congress.

Rhodes said preliminary figures prepared by Tax Commissioner Edgar Lindley show that Ohio consumers could pay as much as $30 billion in new taxes and energy related costs over the next eight years under Carter's plan. The governor said that amounts to $11,000 for every Ohio family.

"We cannot tax ourselves out of the energy shortage," he said.

Rhodes noted that Carter said some of the money would be returned to Americans in the form of rebates, but said the President did not indicate who would get the rebates.

David C. Sweet, a member of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, said he believed Carter's program would help improve natural gas supplies in the state.

By allowing interstate gas prices to rise to intrastate levels, he said, the President's plan should alleviate the problem of Ohio having to fight for dwindling natural gas supplies.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, welcomed several of Carter's proposals, especially elimination of the two-tiered pricing system for natural gas.

But he said he was disappointed that the President did not extend emergency allocation authority to industry. He said Ohio working people suffered enormous hardships this winter through gas curtailments because current law does not protect industries "that happen to be on the wrong pipeline systems."

Other comments on the President's program:

—Karl Rudolph, president of Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.: "I take issue with his proposal to equalize rates (to consumers of electricity)." He said utilities generally charge less per unit of energy to big industrial consumers because it costs less to deliver the energy in quantity.

—William H. Dickhoner, president of Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co.: Said he was in "complete accord" with Carter's assessment of the energy crisis and found his goal of simplified regulation of nuclear power plants "very encouraging."

—J.T. Rogers, vice president of Ohio Edison Co.: "To the extent that his program calls for increased reliance on coal resources and nuclear energy, we would wholeheartedly agree with it."

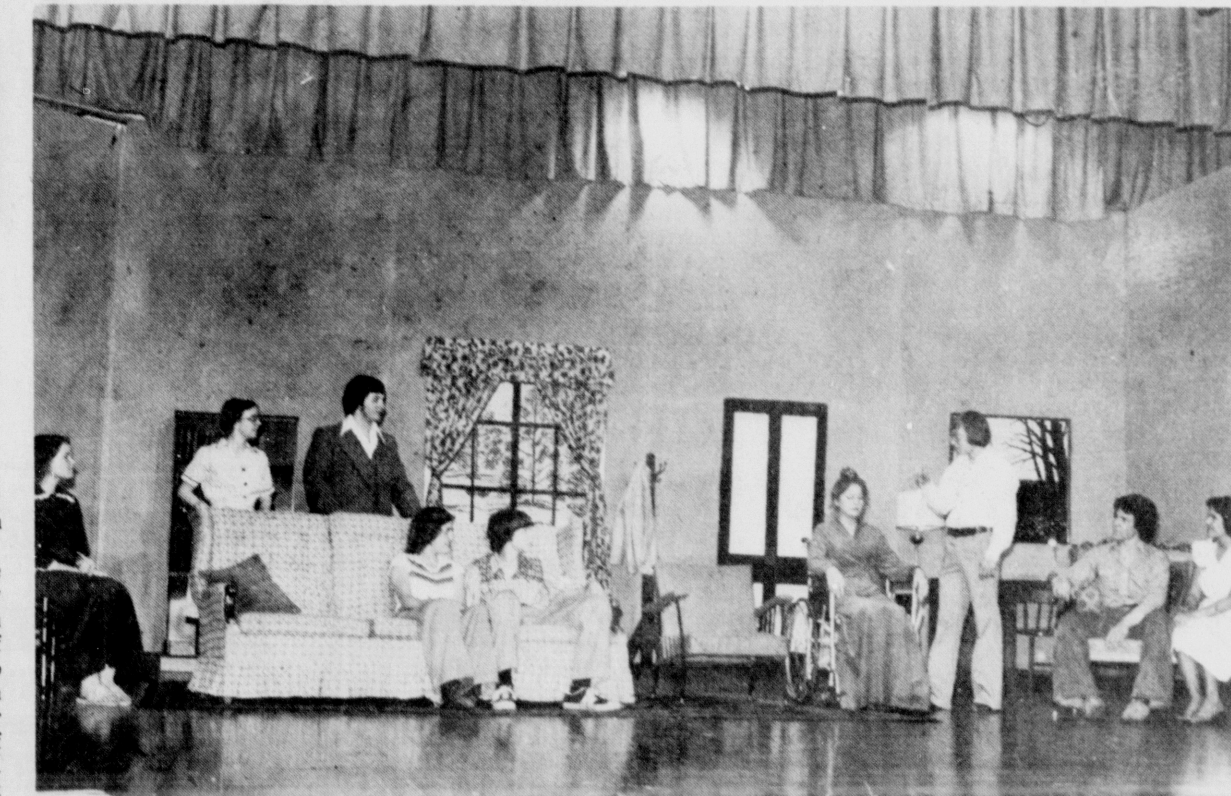

—Dudley Taw, president of East Ohio Gas Co.: "Our problem needs more than conservation. We have got to increase our efforts to supply all available energy."

—Donald Speyer, spokesman for Dayton Power & Light Co.: "Conservation programs and the wise development of our abundant coal deposits and other energy resources are all necessary."

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market moved ahead again today, adding to Wednesday's gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained more than 2 points in early trading. Advances took a 3-2 lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market drew support from news that the rise of the consumer price index slowed to 0.6 per cent in March from a full 1 per cent the month before.

Brokers noted no clear-cut reaction among investors to President Carter's energy proposals Wednesday night. They pointed out that much of the package was known in advance, and that it was still uncertain how Congress would act on it.

Today's prices included Dow Chemical, up 1/2 at 38 1/2; International Paper, ahead 1/2 at 58 1/2, and Eastman Kodak, down 1/2 at 67 1/2.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average managed a 3.82 gain to 942.59.

Advances outnumbered declines by about an 8-5 ratio on the NYSE.

Big Board volume increased to 25.09 million shares from 19.51 million on Tuesday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .20 to 54.70.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .80 at 113.20.

Solar Energy Tests Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A "third generation" of collectors designed to use solar energy to heat and cool houses will be tested here under a grant approved by the Ohio Energy Resource and Development Agency.

In addition to monitoring the efficiency of the glass panels, engineers at Ohio State University will also try to determine during the next heating season if solar residential heating is feasible in the state's climate.

A first year grant of $30,000 was awarded by the state ERDA to pay for the monitoring program. It will also include tests of a solar absorption-refrigeration system to cool the house this summer.

The tests will be conducted by the Engineering Experiment Station's solar energy laboratory at the solar house on the state fairgrounds. OSU Prof. Charles F. Sepsy will supervise.

The new collectors are "more efficient and allow for higher operating temperatures than previous panels," Sepsy said.

"standby" gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon that would begin in 1979 in yearly five cent increments if consumption rises above specified targets. The taxes he asked on automobiles that get poor gas mileage would range from $450 for fuel-inefficient automobiles built in 1978 to $2,500 by 1985.

"We simply must save gasoline and I believe that the American people can meet this challenge. It is a matter of patriotism and commitment," Carter said.

He also proposed new taxes on crude oil that would add about seven cents a gallon to the price of gasoline by 1980 and lead to equivalent increases for other petroleum products; an increase in the federal price ceiling for natural gas, and taxes on industrial and utility use of natural gas and oil.

The program would return some of the taxes to Americans, possibly through income tax rebates, and give tax breaks to homeowners who add insulation to their homes or take other energy-saving measures.

"Voluntary compliance will not be enough," Carter told Congress. "The problem is too large and the time is too short."

Carter had one prominent Republican ally, Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois. "We're a nation of energy-hogs. We've just got to change our habits, even if just to reduce criticism of this country from abroad," Percy said, urging Republicans not to take a "partisan approach. There is no reason why we should not support those parts of the program that make sense."

Carter said his program would "reward those who conserve and penalize those who waste." And he said it strives to spread the sacrifice over all segments of society.

Captured Rebel Says No Cubans In Zaire

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Two rebels captured by President Mobutu Sese Seko's forces say Cuban advisers accompanied them to the border of southern Zaire six weeks ago and then returned to Angola.

"There are no Cubans now," said Yava Pierre Kapenda, 28, who had been shot in the leg.

The men, wearing hospital garb and bandages, appeared at a news conference Wednesday night after being paraded before a rally at the national stadium in an open jeep.

Kapenda said he was a member of the Lunda tribe, the chief tribe in southern Zaire's Shaba province, and had been in Angola since 1963, when he was 14.

He said he fought for the colonial Portuguese army and later for the Marxist Popular Front, which took over the Angolan government when the Portuguese colony got its independence in 1975 and with the help of Cuban troops defeated two pro-Western nationalist factions.

"First we were trained by the Portuguese and after that by the Cubans," Kapenda said.

The younger prisoner, who officials said was 21, was asked who supplied his weapons.

"Neto," he replied, referring to Angolan President Agostinho Neto. He

8 Army Deserters

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ft. Benjamin Harrison has processed eight returning U.S. Army deserters in the first three days of President Carter's program to provide less-than-honorable discharges for non combat deserters.

Half of those processed have been living in Canada and the three who agreed to interviews said they planned to return.

Clearing his record Wednesday, Charles Cole, 31, said now he will be able to visit his family in Kansas without fear of being arrested.

Cole is an executive with a jewelry firm in Toronto, where he has lived since deserting from Ft. Riley, Kan., more than seven years ago.

Carter called his proposed standby gasoline tax "one of the most controversial and misunderstood" parts of his program.

The tax would be triggered at a rate of five cents a year, beginning in January 1979, if gasoline consumption rose above specified levels.

Criticized as inflationary, ineffective as a means of curbing consumption and as penalizing low-income Americans most, the gas tax proposal was widely attacked by lawakers — despite Carter assurances that it would only be levied if conservation goals are not met.

Carter's oil pricing proposals also generated controversy.

His plan would put new taxes on domestic crude oil in two stages that would hike its average cost over a three-year period to the 1977 world-market price of $13.50 a barrel charged by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. This is more than twice the price of some existing domestic oil.

The proposed domestic crude oil tax is expected to add another seven cents a gallon to the pump price of gasoline by 1980.

Carter said there would be "dollar for dollar" rebates to those who use oil to heat their homes to cover the added costs of this tax.

Pegging prices of domestic oil to OPEC prices gives too much power to the oil cartel, critics said. Jackson said Congress would not allow OPEC to decide how much oil will cost in the United States, and predicted that this portion of Carter's proposal would be modified.

The conservation incentive part of the plan — such as tax credits for home insulation and solar energy measures — won praise from Democrats and Republicans and have the most likely chance of success.

had bandages on his neck and a cheek and appeared to have a broken arm.

The reporters were also shown weapons and documents said to have been captured in the Shaba fighting. They included four old automatic rifles, a box of four Soviet antitank mines, a box of explosives labeled in Portuguese, crude counterfeit $100 and Zairean bills and membership cards in the National Front for the Liberation of the Congo.

The men said Gen. Nathaniel Mbumba, the president of the National Front for the Liberation of the Congo, and their unit commander returned to Angola before they were captured.

Some 60,000 civil servants, factory workers and schoolchildren attended the stadium rally, having been given the day off. The crowd cheered Mobutu and some clamored for the death of the prisoners.

Wreckage Puzzling

MONROE, Wash. (AP) — State aviation officials didn't know where to turn when they found a mound of airplane wreckage in the woods near here. It seems they weren't missing any planes.

It took the Boy Scouts to solve the puzzle.

At the "crash site," discovered this week, investigators from the Aeronautics Commission found charred and battered pieces of engines, wings and fuselages. Going by the largest piece, they identified the craft as an Ercoupe, and decided it had been in the woods more than 20 years.

But they couldn't find any record of such a plane on the list of missing planes or the list of found wrecks.

Then the confusion was compounded when other pieces of wreckage were identified as parts of three other kinds of planes.

But as soon as the Boy Scouts heard about the mystery, they solved it.

A group of Scouts had carted bits and pieces of wrecked planes to the woods and placed them there as an aid in training Explorer Scouts in search and rescue work.

Accountants Under Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The accounting profession, under attack after corporate scandals, will inevitably come under stepped up federal government regulation, a university professor here predicts.

Accountants are now hoist with their own petard, said Ohio State University Professor John K. Shank, because of their traditional willingness to allow people to believe in the infallibility of their profession.

Shank, OSU's Arthur Young Professor of Accounting, contends the expansion of the federal government's role in establishing accounting standards can be traced to accountants who oversold the objectivity of financial reports.

Shank travels to Washington May 10 to testify before the U.S. Subcommittee on Reports, Accounting and Management of the Senate Committee on Government Operations. The committee will be responsible for determining what form the government regulations take.

Shank does not advocate a larger role for the federal government in setting up accounting standards. But he says that if it's to come, the profession needs to act now to minimize the negative ramifications of the increased control.

"It needs to be done in such a way as to preserve as many of the prerogatives of the private sector as possible," Shank said.

Liquor Permit Bill Passed By House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Local communities would have a bigger voice in the transfer of liquor permits under a bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate on Wednesday.

Rep. Francine Panehal, D-5 Cleveland, said she is sponsoring the legislation as a result of complaints among her constituents that they have no say in liquor department decisions allowing or denying transfers.

Her bill requires the department to consider the testimony of the affected parties at hearings on transfer requests, expanding present law which allows such testimony only in the issuance of initial permits.

Treasure From Trash

Finding new ways of doing things and new things to do are challenges as old as civilization. Techniques and materials may change, but the quest for improvement is relentless.

One day man may be mining the trash dumps his ancestors so thoughtfully provided. New technology and dwindling resources will combine to salvage far more of the discards than is practical today.

Even junk not needed for recycling into raw materials could be used more efficiently than simply burying it in the ground. It has been found, for instance, that dumping old car bodies, railroad cars and the like into lakes and oceans provides attractive breeding grounds for fish. This phenomenon is known as "thigmotropism."

The Japanese in particular have developed the construction of fish breeding grounds into an art. Instead of rocketing trash into space to be consumed by solar incineration, future man may guard his trash as among his most precious resources.

All The Food We Need

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (KFS) — Disregard the wild predictions of world-wide famine. The U.S. now has the technology to convert waste paper, garbage, wood chips, even cattle wastes, into tasty and nutritious food.

These same waste products can be converted into a liquid fuel which will ease the gasoline shortage greatly.

What else is technologically new? This country has developed a billion-dollar industry, converting cornstarch into a high-fructose product which is chemically almost identical to cane sugar — but sweeter, and only half as expensive. Relatively soon, we will no longer rely on the whims of "third world" suppliers — we could become the world's leading exporter of sweeteners.

Behind all these developments, a flurry of activity and advances in the field of enzyme technology.

"The new discoveries," says Dr. E. Kendall Pye, co-director of the Enzyme Technology Group at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, "are dramatic. Through enzyme science, we have the capability for producing all the food we need — and doing it in factories, where we don't have to worry about weather disasters. We can ferment corn into gasoline, to greatly ease the fuel crisis."

What are these miracle makers called enzymes?

"They are proteins, found in all living things, which cause vital chemical reactions (such as digestion) in the body." Science now can isolate enzymes — there are thousands, in all manner of plants and animals — and use them to convert one thing to another.

But only in the last few years has more sophisticated experimentation shown that enzymes can produce life-saving marvels. "It is within our present technology," says Dr. Pye, "to take both energy and food from the plant material — grass, for instance, and trees — the bulk of which is cellulose. Cattle manure contains 40 per cent cellulose, because of the grass the cattle graze upon. Now, enzymes can break down cellulose to form glucose. You can grow fungi in that, and produce food that is almost pure protein — and it's food that is not subject to droughts or floods. It can be produced right in factories, with no waits for harvest time."

The problem, of course, is that "people aren't used to the idea of eating bacteria, as such." They have fixed ideas on the subject, "even though many traditional foods are almost entirely made up of pure bacteria — yogurts, cheeses, many wines, aged venison. It's all around us. And most people don't realize that the fast food chains, and some of the best hotels in the country, serve beautiful steaks and hamburgers made of what we call flaked meat. When meat is carved from a carcass, much of the meat remains on the bone. But special knives are used to carefully clean off the bones, and the meat and gristle is then texturized with enzymes, and put back in the form of re-synthesized meat cutlets. I point this out to show that the food industry in this country is very capable of producing delicious and inexpensive meat from products that once were totally wasted."

Tomorrow is Food Day, sponsored by the Center for Science in the Public Interest. It will be observed in 200 major cities as "a day of education and action — a time to address pressing food problems." In honor of the day, Dr. Pye assures that enzyme technology can, if permitted, solve those pressing problems. "What we're suggesting here is that, instead of growing only food crops which are subject to all the threats of changing weather patterns (which everybody from the CIA down has said will cause famines), we can use the cellulose found everywhere in nature, and convert it into food and energy sources."

Much of the advance in enzyme science is a result of the discovery of the current president of Israel, Dr. Ephraim Katzir. A problem with enzymes has been that they degraded quickly; Katzir, visiting the U.S. as a scientist in the 1960s, discovered a system for prolonging the life of enzymes by attaching them to solid surfaces — they're then called "immobilized enzymes." This find made a great difference in the food industry, and resulted in big business jumping into the enzyme conversion market. Science quite suddenly went commercial, and factories have sprung up across the land, converting cornstarch to sugar, treating milk sugar to make it more digestible, improving and speeding the production of cheeses, converting cellulose into glucose. . .

Billions of dollars are being made now with the new enzyme discoveries, and the man who gave protein its longer life is over in Israel, presiding.

"He never made a penny out of his discovery," says Dr. Pye. "Katzir, like the rest of us, was an academician. He did what he did just because it was an interesting thing to do."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It's tough for Americans to accept the notion that they cannot continue to consume as they have. It goes against their grain. It conflicts with what they were taught. It is viewed as a restriction of freedom.

No wonder. What youngster hasn't been educated to believe that this is the land of plenty, of the good life, of the life that gets better with each generation, of the high material standard of living?

What adult hasn't been conditioned by advertising and marketing to believe that consumption is a joy and a right? And who hasn't in some small way or large consumed conspicuously because material possessions are admired?

The consumer has been exalted, encouraged, exploited. He and she have been honored as the driving force of the economy. Economists eagerly study the consumer's mind for indications of future economic strength or weakness.

And now the consumer is told to cut it because the country must re-emphasize production, of energy at least, as in the days when the country was developing into the world's premier industrial power.

If we don't cut our energy consumption, we are told, we won't have much of anything else to consume. And that if we don't increase our production of energy, the industrial and social superstructure built upon it might collapse.

And so, like the smokestack that once symbolized industrial might before it was toppled by the reality of pollution, the brilliantly lighted office building that stands empty in the night seems destined to be viewed as an ugly symbol of unconscionable waste.

The change is sudden, but only because so much of the nation refused to heed what it was told — that fossil energy sources are exhaustible.

And those reluctant to conserve aren't to be found only among those who didn't know better.

Within the past decade, owners of office buildings sometimes were told by utilities seeking to boost their sales — that it was good advertising to leave your office lights shining like a beacon in the night.

And the Federal government embarked on an enormous highway building spree with money that some people thought should have gone into mass transportation facilities that would have consumed less energy.

Instead of accepting the warnings, many Americans chose to view the energy crisis as a hoax perpetrated by those who stood to gain from such a line. And surveys show that many people still believe so.

It was partly for this reason that President Carter felt the need to use the phrase "national catastrophe" to describe the potential danger, and "moral equivalent of war" to describe the fight that must be waged.

Nevertheless, there will remain a good many people who will not be convinced that the big oil companies didn't conspire to bring about the shortage for their own greedy ends.

And there are others who will be so highly displeased and greatly inconvenienced that they will find it difficult to accept the level of sacrifice they are called upon to make.

Coal Costs Said Heavy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Out-of-state coal is costing Ohioans $170 million a year in lost salaries and additional income, the Ohio Lung Association said Tuesday.

The association cited a 1975 Federal Power Commission report that if Ohio electric utilities had used only Ohio coal under existing regulations and had installed flue gas desulfurizers, they could have increased their use of Ohio coal by 26 per cent or 11.9 million tons.

OLA said the amount nearly equals the total coal production for 20 of Ohio's 25 coal-producing counties which employed 4,578 persons in 1975.

"Apparently, some utility companies are using costly low-sulfur coal from other states with little or no regard for the resultant job losses in Ohio," said Dale C. Hollen, executive director. "Furthermore, the use of additional out-of-state coal is being threatened as an alternative to avoid the installation of scrubbers which would reduce sulfur oxide emissions and permit the use of more Ohio coal while complying with proposed air quality regulations."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, April 21, the 111th day of 1977. There are 254 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1509, Henry VIII became king of England, on the death of Henry VII.

On this date:

In 753 BC, tradition has it that Rome was founded by Romulus.

In 1832, the Black Hawk Indian War began along the upper Mississippi.

In 1836, Texans led by Gen. Sam Houston defeated a Mexican force in the Battle of San Jacinto, assuring the independence of Texas.

In 1954, U.S. Air Force planes began flying French troops from France to Indochina to bolster the precarious French position at Dien Bien Phu.

In 1966, surgeons in Houston, Tex., made the first implant of an artificial heart in a human.

In 1967, the Greek army seized control of the government in Athens and set up military rule.

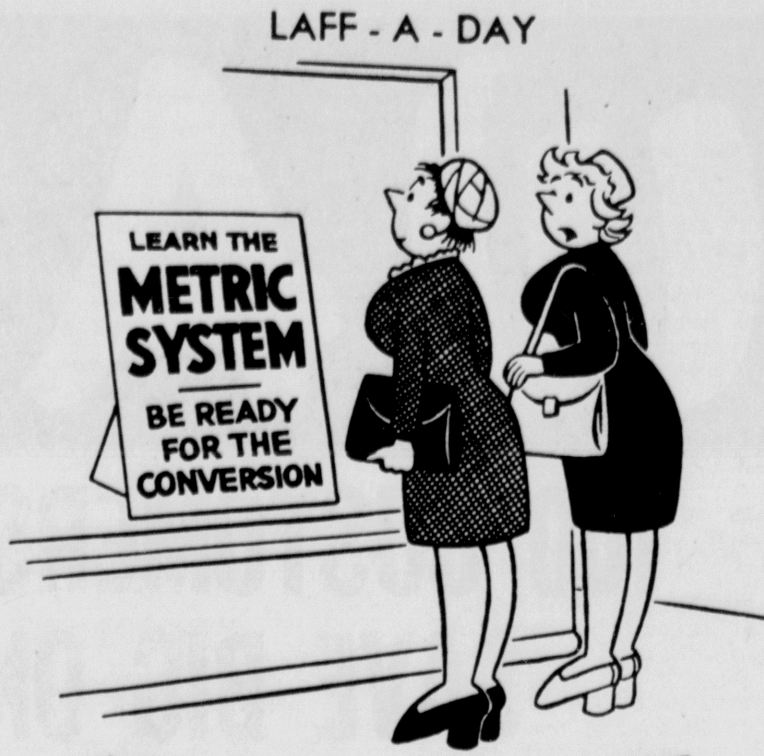

Ten years ago: The late Soviet dictator Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alluyeva, arrived in New York after seeking political asylum at the U.S. embassy in New Delhi the previous month.

Five years ago: The Apollo 16 astronauts, John Young and Charles Duke, were exploring the surface of the moon, driving an electric car.

One year ago: Egypt and China signed a military accord in Peking.

Today's birthdays: Queen Elizabeth of Britain is 51 years old. Actor Anthony Quinn is 62.

Thought for today: Democracy is not a static thing. It is an everlasting march — President Franklin Roosevelt, 1882-1945.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

In my social group there are a number of people who are having psychotherapy or psychoanalysis. They're constantly using terms that I don't understand. Could you clarify some of these for me?

Mrs. B. L. L., Mich.

Dear Mrs. L.:
I'll take the most common ones that you have listed and define them for you:

Ambivalence: The co-existence of two opposing drives, desires, feelings or emotions toward the same person, object or goal. These may be conscious or partly unconscious. A good example of this is love and hate for the same person.

Anxiety: Apprehension, tension or uneasiness which stems from the anticipation of danger, the source of which is largely unknown or unrecognized. Fear, closely allied to anxiety, is a reaction to some real threat or danger.

Catharsis: The healthful release of ideas accomplished by the expression of feelings and inner emotions.

Paranoia: A psychotic disorder characterized by feelings of persecution and delusions of grandeur. This is a most complicated disorder which can be thoroughly understood only by those who are highly trained in psychiatry and psychology.

Schizophrenia: Another severe emotional disorder characterized by a retreat from reality, with delusions, hallucinations, emotional disharmony and changes in behavior.

It must be emphasized that paranoia and schizophrenia are not terms to be used indiscriminately by those who have no true capacity to evaluate them. Far too often the terms are used as adjectives to describe a person who is not liked or understood. This is not fair.

Transference: The unconscious transfer, to the therapist or others, of feelings and attitudes which were originally associated with important figures in one's early life. . . . Parents, brothers, sisters, uncles, and friends, for example. The psychiatrist uses this phenomenon to help the patient understand his emotional problems and their origins.

Oedipus Complex: This is a Freudian concept that indicates attachment of the child for the parent of the opposite sex, accomplished by envious or aggressive feelings towards the parent of the same sex. Originally, this term applied only to the male child, but now has extended to both.

For those interested in more extensive definitions, an excellent Psychiatric Glossary is published by the American Psychiatric Association in Washington, D. C.

Many of these definitions were abstracted from this publication.

Upgraded Discharges Generate Little Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army officials, concerned about apparent lack of interest in President Carter's program to upgrade less-than-honorable military discharges from the Vietnam era, are launching an advertising campaign to spur the response.

Only about 15,000 veterans of a potential 432,500 have made inquiries in the first 14 days of the program, and the number of calls has been dropping.

The upgrade program will last for at least six months, but the Army had been geared up to handle an expected surge of applications in the first 30 days. Except for the first two days, the surge did not develop.

The Army is planning a follow-up publicity campaign to stimulate fresh interest and reach any eligible veteran who did not get the word originally.

The new effort will include public service spot announcements on the nation's TV and radio stations, special material to be sent to 8,900 newspapers, and posters that will be displayed in thousands of post offices, Veterans Administration offices and other federal buildings in the United States as well as embassies abroad.

Paid advertising will be considered only as a last resort, officials said.

Although many officers disagree personally with the discharge upgrade program, the Army leadership appears to feel an obligation to make it work since the assignment came from the President.

Some senior officials seem to view the small response so far as reflecting adversely on the Army.

Meanwhile, it has been decided that the 173,000 Vietnamera service personnel who received undesirable discharges will be permitted to pick up veterans benefits and some retroactive Army "entitlements" such as back pay for leave accrued up to the time of their original discharges. This was unresolved when the program started April 5.

Army and VA officials said it is too early to estimate how much this will cost.

No such problem exists with the 259,524 veterans who received general discharges, which carried no loss of benefits.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:
We would like to take this opportunity to give our apologies to the people of Circleville. Since last Thursday there has not been any programming on Christian Television in Circleville.

Last week we began telecasting from our new studios at 116 W. Perry St. in Lancaster, and due to the relocation of equipment, there have been problems with the microwave system that feeds Circleville. Presently, we are awaiting a piece of equipment that was ordered to correct the problem. As soon as the equipment arrives (which should be within a week) we will resume our normal schedule from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m., and during May will expand to 12 hours a day with possible expansion beyond that in the near future.

Once again, we would like to apologize for the inconvenience, and ask for your patience as we work to improve the quality of our programming, and your prayers as we proceed with the ministry of Christian Television in Circleville.

Thank You,

There were 21 present at the Five Points United Methodist Sunday School Sunday morning. Worship service followed with Rev. Larry Zellers in the pulpit. His sermon was "Our Hearts Burned".

The Five Points United Methodist Social Hour Club will meet Thursday evening April 28 at 7 p.m. in the basement of the church for their regular covered dish supper and April meeting. Ruth O'Day, Geraldine McCafferty and Libby Rogers will be hostesses.

Farmers Union Backs Extension Service Funding

The Executive Committee of the Ohio Farmers Union met in Columbus recently and unanimously agreed that Extension Services within the State of Ohio should be adequately funded so that county field staff might be retained.

Forty such personnel have been put off within the past two years and the committee would like to see these positions filled. They feel that extension services should increase and research should be geared to expanding markets for agricultural products.

The committee also feels that the 12.2 per cent proposed in the governor's budget would be a bare minimum of funding for extension services.

The Ohio Farmers Union is opposed to any expansion of funds for extension services directed towards increased productivity in communities already in surplus until we have adequately been able to market our present farm commodities at a reasonable profit to the farmer.

Scioto River Basin Report Released

A report containing recommendations for water and related land projects and programs for the Scioto River Basin is now being reviewed by the Governors and heads of cooperating Federal agencies within the Ohio River Basin.

This report was prepared under the leadership of the Ohio River Basin Commission and contains information furnished by the states and Federal agencies directly influencing the Scioto Basin.

Recommendations for implementation during the next five years include one Army snagging and clearing project at Laurelville, improved municipal waste treatment facilities at 29 communities. The report also recommends the study of: Four USDA-Soil Conservation Service watershed projects; the Army Chillicothe and vicinity local Protection Project; fifty water quality Facility Planning Areas; and eight HUD Flood Insurance Studies in the Basin. The state members of the Commission recommend that funding for abandoned mine drainage abatement and State Water Quality Enforcement Programs be provided on an 80 per cent Federal - 20 per cent local cost-sharing basis. Also, additional Federal funding is recommended to authorize Federal agencies to participate in the funding of recreational development on non-Federal publicly owned lands contiguous to Federal projects where the recreational facilities are operated by other than Federal agencies.

Copies of the report may be obtained from the Ohio River Basin Commission, 36 East Fourth Street, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. Comments on the report are requested by July 13, 1977.

BPW Announces Reception Speaker

The Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club will sponsor a senior girl-graduate reception, 7 p.m., April 28, at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Miss Marlynn Singleton, of WBNS-TV. Miss Singleton, is currently working with Roy Briscoe on the Noon News, and was the first woman to co-anchor at the station. She had the distinction of being Miss Ohio in the Miss Universe Pageant of 1969.

A native of Columbus, and an Ohio State University graduate, Miss Singleton is active in community theatre, having choreographed various musicals and variety shows.

Collection of early Indian artifacts found in this area, and is currently on display in the Miller Pontius room of the museum.

Two temporary exhibits have been arranged for, from the collections of Blenn and Jane Stevenson, 152 Pinkney St.

For more than 15 years, Blenn has collected bottles that were used in the early business of Pickaway County. He has selected more than 60 bottles of many shapes, sizes and colors, for this display. They bring back memories of the names of doctors, druggists, milk companies, dry goods stores, liquor stores and many other businesses located along the Circleville streets soon after the center of the city was squared.

Jane Stevenson has collected letterheads which also show the early businesses of the county. She currently has on display more than 100 of these. Many of these were found in the loft of the Harry Clifton Building, located on W. Main St., where for over a century the Fickhardt drug store was owned and operated by three generations of the Fickhardt family. George Fickhardt carefully kept and preserved records which recall many early families and residents of the county.

Hosterman Speaks To Young GOP

Judge O. Charles Hosterman spoke Tuesday evening to the Pickaway County Young Republicans' Club.

He outlined the functions of the Municipal Court and the strict code of conduct governing an Ohio judge's relationship to his political party. The Judge stated that he believes the code to be appropriate because politics should play no part in judicial decisions, and that he looks forward to the process of choosing judges being taken out of the political arena entirely.

Presently judges in Ohio run on a party ticket in the primary and on an independent ticket in the general election. Judge Hosterman further stated that he believes in the future the ballot system of choosing judges would be replaced by an appointment system and that local courts would be taken over by the state because of funding.

He explained that he presently has a problem with funding for both facilities and personnel and that the hiring of the needed personnel could be forced by a law suit against city council. He stated there were 22 such suits in Ohio in 1976.

In other Club business, committees were selected to make plans for a booth at the city's July sidewalk sale and to make nominations for election of officers in June. The next meeting will be May 17th.

Ohio Wildflowers On View At Natural Area Hikes

Nature enthusiasts can learn more about Ohio's wildflowers while enjoying a leisurely hike through a natural area by participating in one of a series of programs scheduled this spring at Ohio's state nature preserves.

Sponsored by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources' Division of Natural Areas and Preserves, the hikes are being conducted at 11 state nature preserves during April and May.

The two areas closest to Circleville are Shallenberger in Fairfield County and Gahanna Woods in Franklin County.

Shallenberger, located on Beck's Knob Road three miles southwest of Lancaster off Route 22, will be conducting 2 p.m. tours on Sunday, May 1;

Saturday, May 14; and Sunday, May 29.

Gahanna Woods, located 2½ miles southeast of Gahanna on Taylor Station Road, will conduct 2 p.m. tours Sunday, April 24; Saturday, May 7; and Sunday, May 15.

Other sites are Blackhand Gorge in Licking County, Clifton Gorge in Green County, Fowler Woods in Richland County, Goll Woods in Fulton County, Headlands Dunes in Lake County, Howard Collier Picnic Area of the Sandusky Scenic River, Seneca County; Mentor Marsh, Lake County; Lake Katherine, Jackson County; and Tinkers Creek, Summitt County.

"The hikes offer Ohioans an opportunity to discover the many natural wonders found in these unique and diverse areas," said Richard Moseley, Chief of the Division of Natural Areas and Preserves.

Naturalists from the Division conduct the hikes. Along the way they identify the various kinds of wildflowers found in the preserve.

The one-mile hikes are scheduled to last approximately one hour.

Moseley recommends hikers wear sturdy shoes and comfortable clothing.

For more information concerning the wildflower hikes, contact the Division of Natural Areas and Preserves, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224 or phone (614) 466-7803.

Suburbs Seek Split From Cook County

CHICAGO (AP) — Some of the wealthiest suburbs of Chicago are mounting a campaign to split away from Cook County, which they say collects their taxes, but denies them proper representation.

Leaders of the secessionist movement say the county, the nation's second most populous, is dominated by Chicago, the country's second largest city, and that suburban residents are paying high tax bills largely to support city services.

To counter this, six townships containing more than a dozen of Chicago's fastest-growing suburban communities, have begun planning a new county, something that hasn't been done in Illinois since 1859.

The county — to be called Lincoln — would cut off what is now the northwest corner of Cook County. Lincoln would be the state's fourth largest county with an estimated 350,000 residents.

State Sen. David Regner, a suburban Republican, has sponsored legislation that would make secession easier. He says a survey he conducted among 2,000 of his constituents showed 69 per cent in favor of withdrawal, 17 per cent opposed and 14 per cent with no opinion.

The idea of separating suburban towns from the central city is not unique to Cook County. There have also been some efforts, so far unsuccessful, to split off outlying communities of Los Angeles County, the nation's largest in terms of population. Admittedly a "tongue-in-cheek idea" when it started, the campaign "gets more serious the worse the Cook County government becomes," says Mayor Wendell Jones of Palatine, the guiding force behind the separatist movement.

Jones has prepared a feasibility study on the idea and suburban officials sent it on to the state Department of Local Affairs.

"The enormity of it staggers me," said John Castle, department acting director. "Starting a county from scratch like that. It's just an enormous undertaking."

Before World War II, the northwest suburbs consisted mainly of vegetable farms. Since then, they have experienced dramatic growth, absorbing an influx of relatively affluent white collar workers.

Arlington Heights, for instance, grew from 8,768 residents in 1950 to 64,884 in 1970. Its median family income in 1974 was $24,000, compared with a median of $12,400 in the city.

Currently, suburbs account for almost half of Cook County's total $23.9 billion assessed valuation. They accounted for only a third of the county's total worth a decade ago.

"I think we would be better served, with a more modern approach to government, if we created our own county unit," said Jones.

He said the present county board structure, with 10 Chicago members and six suburban representatives, gives the suburban interests short shrift.

Although the majority of suburban residents are Republicans, "you have the Democratic machine of Chicago controlling the suburbs," Jones said. "It's one-party rule totally, and there seems to be no way out except secession."

George Dunne, Cook County board president and chairman of the county Democratic organization, said he would offer no resistance to the secessionists' proposal "if it's what the people want."

"This is a democracy," he said. "If the people want it, they should have it. I'm not worried about losing (patronage) jobs or anything else."

Mayor James Ryan of Arlington Heights said the idea of seceding "has some merit, but I'm not as optimistic as some others are for its coming to fruition."

"Before I'd be out front, I'd want a thoughtful, in-depth analysis of what would result," Ryan said. "What's good at one time may not be good for all times."

Jones said the biggest obstacle to secession is the stringent requirements of state law.

The law currently requires the signatures of at least half the registered voters in the area to place the question of secession on the ballot in the 1978 general election, the earliest it could be done.

Then a majority of all persons voting in the election — not just a majority of those voting on the secession issue — is required for approval. This means someone who fails to vote either way on the issue effectively casts a "no" vote.

Regner's bills would reduce the number of petition signatures required to at least 20 per cent and would make approval hinge on the number of persons voting strictly on the issue.

Springboro Loses Annexation Bid

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Springboro, Ohio lost its bid to annex 220 acres south of the city when Warren County commissioners ruled the sole motivation of the petitioners was for city water.

"There should be a way to provide water to this area without annexation," said Commissioner Robert Turner.

Turner said 29 property owners opposed the annexation while 31 favored it. Springboro officials said the city's policy is to refuse water outside corporate limits.

Ten members attended the meeting of the Tarlton Ladies Auxiliary last Tuesday evening. Plans were discussed for the carnival to be May 12 through May 14.

The Auxiliary will sell food during the Firemen's Annual Auction, on April 23 at 10 a.m.

Anyone wishing to donate for the Country Store should contact Evelyn Turvey 474-8508 or Pauline Pearce 963-2081.

Open house of the Taylor Funeral Home in Tarlton was held on Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

The old brick home, owned years ago by the Nye's and more recently by the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schwinn, has been beautifully restored by Mr. and Mrs. Lew Taylor and is a credit to the community.

One of the oldest buildings in the village, it was once an inn, and Henry Clay was one of the noted persons who had lodged there, while travelling the Zanesville, Maysville Pike.

Don't forget the time change, with the clock to be turned forward one hour at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, April 24.

Also don't forget the Firemen's Auction, to be held at the Fire House on Saturday, April 23.

Realtors Answer Questions

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following question-and-answer column, provided in conjunction with Private Property Week, April 17-23, deals with two questions that frequently are asked members of the Pickaway County Board of Realtors. It is our hope that the answers given by Sue Spires, board president, will assist home owners and potential buyers of homes throughout the area.

Question: How do I decide what home-style — size, location and cost — to buy for me and the family?

Answer: Before you visit a Realtor's office to be shown homes, sit down with all members of the family and discuss what it is you want in a home.

Do you want a modern, rambling ranch-style or an older two- or three-story home, for example? Is yours an active, sports-minded and recreation-minded family? If so, you would want a home with a family or recreation room and the home should be located near a park or near baseball, tennis or football facilities.

Do you have young children? Then you wouldn't want to locate in a neighborhood that has few young playmates for them.

In short, Realtors try to fit the home to the family and not the family to the home.

Question: I have enough of a down payment now to buy a nice home, but not the kind of home I really want. Wouldn't it be best for me to wait until I have the money for my "dream house" instead of buying less of a home now?

Answer: Waiting to buy your dream house likely will put you further from the date that you will be able to buy the home. Each year you wait to buy a home costs you money. It's not just the equity you won't be gaining. The cost of the home goes up.

Nationally, the price of homes has risen faster than the rate of inflation, so a home that this year might cost $40,000 could cost as much as $44,000 next year.

Finally, there is no guarantee that the prevailing interest rate this year will be the same or lower next year. An increase of .5 per cent would mean about $9 more monthly on a $25,000 mortgage. Carrying the $9 over the length of a 25-year mortgage, the loss would be about $2,700.

The best time to buy is when you can afford to buy a home. Don't wait to be able to buy that dream house; buy the "nice home" now, build equity, enjoy living in your own home. Later, buy the dream home with the equity, profit from the sale of the "nice home" and the additional savings you've accumulated.

Members of the Pickaway County Board of Realtors will help find a home suitable for you and your family, one you can own now and not have to dream about.

Private Property Week is an annual observance of the right of all Americans to acquire their own home and land. It was a right guaranteed to them even before the Constitution was written. The 500,000-members of the National Association of Realtors are joining with home owners across the nation in a quiet observance of this historic right to own private property. The dates are April 17-23.

License Tag Funds Released

COLUMBUS — Governor James A. Rhodes today announced that the Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) has released an advance of $4,506,019.00 in 1976 license plate revenues for distribution among county and local governments across the state. Pickaway County received $8,746.62.

Governor Rhodes reported that warrant requests for this distribution are being forwarded to the State Auditor, and said BMV officials hope to have checks back from the Auditor and ready for mailing to each county by April 25, 1977. This latest disbursement brings total payments to local governments from revenue received during the 1976 license year to more than $158 million, the Governor said.

The Governor also reminded motor vehicle owners throughout Ohio that the 1977 registration period is now in full swing. All vehicle owners whose last name begins with the letters A-K must obtain their 1977 registration by April 30 and those with last names beginning with L-Z will obtain theirs during May 1-31. The revenue collected by the BMV for these vehicle registrations is returned to local governments - county, city and township - for their use in street and highway maintenance and repair projects.

The Governor noted that the treasuries of many communities were hit hard by very high street and highway maintenance costs during the recent record breaking winter. The BMV has made a special effort to get this unprecedented seventh release of 1976 license revenue out to county and city governments at this time to help meet this unanticipated heavy drain on local funds.

ERDA Expansion Measure Promoted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The staff of the Ohio Energy Resource and Development Agency has recommended support for a bill that would give the department full cabinet-level status in the Rhodes Administration.

Instead of operating under the policies of a five-member appointed board, ERDA would be run by a cabinet director responsible only to Gov. James A. Rhodes.

But the legislation isn't a power play by the governor, who appoints the ERDA members anyway. It's sponsored by a Democrat, Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Boardman.

Carney isn't all that concerned with the political ramifications of overhauling ERDA. But he feels the board was bypassed during last winter's energy crisis, when Rhodes took charge and worked directly with ERDA Director Robert Ryan.

Plans drawn up by the ERDA board were largely ignored, as the governor went his own way in consultation with Ryan, his former energy advisor.

Ironically, it was Rhodes who demanded that ERDA be administered by five appointees, named by him. He vetoed an earlier energy bill in 1975

Aerial Ballerina

Injured In Fall

CINCINNATI (AP) — Aerial ballerina Nancy Joy Gordano was reported in serious condition with multiple fractures after she plunged 28 feet to the floor during her act with the Shrine Circus on Wednesday.

The 29-year-old trapeze veteran was performing for a mostly children's audience when she fell at Cincinnati Gardens.

"It was tragic," said ringmaster Senor Rai. "I saw her fall when she was in midair. I ran to try to help her, but it was too late. It shook me up completely."

Circus producer Tommy Hanneford said he hadn't seen an accident "like this since the 1960s."

Miss Gordano suffered multiple fractures of the jaw, ribs, both arms and a leg.

that did not meet those specifications.

That latest wrinkle would eliminate the policy-making panel and replace it with an "advisory board." That way Ryan would not be caught in the middle between a strongminded chief executive and a board that is supposed to be his boss.

ERDA's staff wants Carney's bill amended to specify that representatives from labor, the university community and the research field are on the advisory board.

"Additionally, we recommend that board meetings not be held monthly, but at least quarterly," the staff report said.

Rhodes said he had no complaints about the ERDA board, but would not oppose legislation to revamp the agency.

If a quorum is present, the board members will decide at a May 2 meeting whether to approve the staff recommendation and support a bill that would legislate them out of existence.

At a meeting earlier this week, only two of the five members were present and the session was adjourned for want of a quorum.

The measure is pending in the House Energy and Environment Committee, which is chaired by Carney. He is one of four, nonvoting legislative members of ERDA.

State Employees To Study Driving

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state is going to teach its employees defensive driving in an attempt to cut the costs of vehicle repairs and disability claims arising from on-the-job traffic accidents.

The Department of Highway Safety Wednesday kicked off a year-long program in which all employees who operate motor vehicles on state business will be taught how to prevent dangerous driving situations from developing.

"The idea behind this program is to reduce the involvement of state workers in traffic accidents," said director Robert Chiaramonte, "and thus reduce the cost in property damage, personal injury claims and lost time that results from these crashes."

By June next year, Chiaramonte estimates 15,000-25,000 state workers will have received eight hours of professionally-designed instruction.

A group of 160 state workers have been selected to undergo intensive training this month at the Highway Patrol Academy. They'll serve as regular classroom instructors when the classes begin in mid-June.

Larry Moore and Larry, Jr. and Dena VanDyke.

Marilyn Fausnaugh, Little Walnut, would like to thank her family, friends and neighbors for the many visits, cards, flowers, and gifts she received while a patient in Berger Hospital and after returning home.

Thanks to Pastor Zehner, Nancy List, Drs. Geron, Gillen and Myers and all the employees of Berger Hospital. Everyone working there was so kind to her. Thanks to everyone.

The Esquire Rank will be conferred on six candidates at the April 27 meeting of the Knights of Palmetto Lodge. All members are urged to attend.

Don't forget the annual Flower Sale sponsored by the Ashville Junior Women's Club to be held May 6 and 7 in the Ashville Park. These flowers will be just in time for your Mother's Day gifts. Annuals and hanging baskets will be offered this year.

Boy, it sure didn't take very long for enough people to step forward with material donations for the restoration of the station . . . thanks!

We still need brick for paving and two exterior doors, without windows. The doors must be 2' 10" wide. We will be removing all the old sashes, saving the good ones and replacing the rotten ones. These will be refurbished and readied for someone to reglaze the new windows.

We need someone to lay the block piers in place. We can't do much until this happens. All this is involved in the leveling of the first row of block, half block will be loose. The building will be secured with earth anchors.

If you are interested in doing this or donating needed material please call Bob Hines, 983-2803. A special thanks to Jeff Singleton for offering to cut the new window panes to size, and to David Dill for handling the interior design plans.

Monetary donations should be made out to the "Station Restoration" and sent to the Ashville Community Club, in the care of Bill Welsh, 157 Jefferson Avenue, Ashville.

The annual Memorial Day Dinner will again be served by the members of the South Bloomfield Church at the Municipal Building.

Results of the Ashville Belles Tuesday Morning Housewives Bowling League for April 19 were; High single game, Bea Smith, 226; High three-game series, Bea Bonilla, 567; High team game and series, Lovely Lady Hair Fashions, 761 and 1988.

DP&L Ponders Repayment Order

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, including action Wednesday, now has ordered electric companies to repay customers more than $11 million in overcharges.

Dayton Power & Light Co. became the fourth utility Wednesday to come under a repayment order when the PUCO found it owed its electricity customers a total of $907,105 for three months.

The bulk of the repayment, $690,973, is for January and February when DP&L was buying electric power from other power companies rather than generating its total customer needs.

Ohio law requires that utilities must provide energy at the lowest possible cost. PUCO rules allow electric utilities to buy from each other but demand that the companies prove through cost comparison studies that the purchased power is cheaper than it would be if generated by the utility itself.

The company defended buying rather than generating electricity in those two months on the grounds that it was in an emergency position. It further said the purchased power was the cheapest even though the cost comparison was not made.

In ordering the repayment for January and February charges, the commission did not say that the purchased electricity was more expensive but that DP&L failed to make the cost comparison.

The remaining $216,000 payback results from the commission finding that the company miscalculated its fuel use for electricity generating in October 1976.

The company now has three options: —It may ask the PUCO for a rehearing. The commission normally denies such requests.

—It may appeal to the Supreme Court.

—Or it may pay the money back to its customers.

Company officials said they are not sure at this time which of those options they will select.

The PUCO ruling came during a fuel adjustment hearing. Each utility company is allowed to vary its rates according to its fuel costs which vary monthly. Twice a year the utilities must prove to the PUCO that the fuel adjustments are valid.

DP&L serves about 400,000 electricity customers. The average reconciliation per customer amounts to $2.50, although it will vary widely with biggest users going above the average and smaller consumers getting much less. Consumers should not expect cash repayments but instead a reduction in their bills.

Late in 1975 the PUCO was empowered to force the utilities to prove their fuel adjustment charges. Until then, the utilities were able to pass the increases or decreases in their fuel bills straight through to customers without monitoring by government.

Since enactment of the law, Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., Ohio Edison, and Ohio Power Co. have been ordered to make reconciliations.

The largest order involved Ohio Power early this month when the PUCO found it owed its customers $9.5 million. Ohio Power is appealing.

CG&E was ordered in December 1976 to pay back $250,000. In February, Ohio Edison was told it owed consumers $461,000.

Elderly Man Robbed, Tied By Thieves

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies are continuing to search for two men who used force to take an elderly man's wallet Wednesday afternoon.

Law enforcement agencies in adjacent counties were given a description of the two men and the vehicle they were driving.

The incident occurred about 1:15 p.m. Wednesday when Jacob Steele, 9700 Pickaway Road, Lockbourne, was summoned to the front door of his home by the two men, who claimed to have car trouble.

Deputies suspect that the culprits thought Steele was still operating the Pick-Way Inn. However, he retired last year and was living in the rear of the store.

Steele told Deputy Jim Bingman that one of the men came to the door and asked to purchase a soft drink.

After being refused, he returned to his friend with the disabled vehicle. The second man approached Steele about 15 minutes later and asked for gasoline. When told by Steele that no gas was available, he asked to borrow a dollar and then grabbed the elderly man by his wrists and forced him back inside the building.

Both men shoved Steele to the rear of the building and placed him on a bed. His hands and feet were tied with electric wire.

The men, after taking his wallet containing $10 in cash, rummaged through drawers and opened an old cash register in the building.

Steele told Deputy Bingman that he thought one of the men had a hand gun.

Officers assisting in the search for the two men were Detectives Don Thompson and J. Phillip Brown and Deputies Jim Dixon and Lowell Ferguson.

A registered beagle puppy was taken from a kennel owned by Robert Sizemore, 25855 Kime-Holderman Road.

The animal was taken between 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Although there were two dogs in the kennel, the thieves took only the beagle, valued at $149.

Vandals committed $35 damage to a pontoon boat owned by Irvin Funk, Atlanta. The boat was moored at the west boat ramp of Deer Creek State Park.

The vandals bent twin boat horn trumpets and damaged the docking light on the control panel.

UM Spring Conference Set Here

BISHOP HAZEN WERNER

The Spring Conference of the Columbus South District of the United Methodist Church will be held 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Community United Methodist Church.

District Superintendent Clyde Pinnell will be presiding. The featured speaker will be Bishop Hazen Werner on the subject, "Looking Over Your Shoulder at the Past."

Bishop Werner was resident bishop of Ohio from 1948 to 1964. He brings the experience of a wide and varied background. He received degrees from Albion College, Michigan, and Drew University, where he was also professor. He served churches in Michigan until called to Grace United Methodist Church, Dayton. He was elected to the Episcopacy and became the leader of Ohio Methodism at that time.

Bishop Werner is also known as an excellent preacher and for his family emphasis in speaking and leading conferences on that subject. He is also the author of several books. He and Mrs. Werner are living in the Columbus area.

Special music for the conference will be provided by "Good News".

Following the district business and Bishop Werner's address, refreshments will be served by the United Methodist Women of Community Church.

The conference is open to everyone.

Harper Bible Class To Meet Saturday

The Harper Bible Class of Good Shepherd United Methodist Church will meet in the Service Center 7:30 p.m. Saturday. It will be the regular meeting and silent auction. Ira and Elizabeth Valentine and Elliott and Marilyn Hawkes are members of the committee.

Free Tool Library Tried In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Inner city residents here are able to avoid much of the trouble of annual spring house repairs by borrowing the tools they need from their Uncle Sam instead of their neighbor.

Need a power drill to install some panelling? Or a sander to spruce up some wood floors? How about a paint brush or pipe wrench? It's all available and it's all free.

The project, unique in Ohio, is financed with $175,000 in federal community development funds. There are believed to be only two others like it financed with CDA funds in the nation.

To get a hammer, posthole digger, shovels, bench grinder with safety goggles, bolts and nuts, and a ladder, residents of five areas of the inner city visit the "Mobile Tool Library," three vans outfitted to deliver and pick up the equipment that circulates around the city.

People who live in South Linden, near east, near south, Franklinton and east Columbus obtain at no cost almost any kind of power tool or other equipment to renovate and rehabilitate their homes, whether they own the property or rent. They acquire the gear as easily as checking out a book from the public library.

Mrs. James Langhorne borrows equipment which would be too expensive to buy for occasional use.

"I've used the paint up—clean up equipment," she said. "They supply the drip pans and the covers for the furniture." She has also used carpet cleaning and floor polishing gear.

"Well, actually I think it is a very beneficial program," Mrs. Langhorne said. "I don't drive so its very convenient" to get tools from the van parked in the neighborhood.

The project is just over a year old, and despite its apparent attractiveness, the city initially had trouble finding people who wanted to borrow the gear. The program lasts another year.

But the project's current coordinator, Ken Angel, says public interest is increasing. During the first year, 2,072 tools of various shapes and sizes were loaned. One-fourth as many have been distributed in the last two months alone.

Teachers May Face Dismissal

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Board of Education scheduled a meeting today to discuss further action against striking teachers, including possible mass firings.

A teachers' union leader, meanwhile, accused the board of continuing to use scare tactics instead of entering into serious contract negotiations.

School board President Henry Kasson complained Wednesday that pickets had become more disruptive since the board lost its bid for a court injunction to end the strike.

Kasson said the board had three options if continuing negotiations were not fruitful: Seek another injunction if picketing activity becomes violent, consider firing teachers for failure to perform while under contract, or invoke the Ferguson Act, which permits firing of striking public employees.

"First they try to scare us to death by cutting off our medical insurance," said Roger Stephens, president of the Cincinnati Federation of Teachers. "Then they tried repression with a court injunction that failed. Now they are threatening to fire us instead of concentrating on the bargaining table to work out a meaningful agreement."

The CFT struck the 65,000-pupil district April 13 in a contract dispute.

LE Has 5 Starters Over .400

The Logan Elm baseball team currently has five starters hitting over .400 and seven of the starters over .350.

Jerry Scanlan, junior catcher for the Braves, has the leading average, a .489 mark which includes four doubles, a triple and two homeruns.

Randy Pontius and Lynn Strehle both have .455 averages. Strehle leads the team in runs batted in with 21, has cracked five doubles and four homeruns. Pontius has hit three doubles, a triple and three homeruns.

Tony Crist has a .452 average which includes three doubles, two triples and two homeruns.

Chuck Cave is hitting at a .442 clip, has driven in 18 runs with two doubles and three homeruns.

Tim Fouch has a .367 hitting average and Mike Davis is just a percentage point behind at .366.

Other extra base hitters for the Braves are Jeff Collins a homerun and two doubles and John Mettler with two doubles and a home run.

Baseball Game Rescheduled

The Circleville-Greenfield baseball game, cancelled due to rain yesterday, is being rescheduled for next Wednesday. It will begin 4:30 p.m. on the CHS diamond.

McKinney, A's Top Brewers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Rich McKinney had to make a choice between driving a truck and driving a baseball. It was no choice.

"Mr. Finley called me and told me it would be the best chance I had since I came to Oakland and I would be foolish not to report," said McKinney.

Mr. Finley is Charles O. Finley —

Anderson Unhappy With Feeble Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Sutton struggled and won. Sparky Anderson paced and seethed.

"I felt like Carmen Basilio waltzing past Mohammed Ali," said Sutton, the Los Angeles Dodger right-hander, after Wednesday's 3-1 victory over the skidding Cincinnati Reds.

"I'm so mad right now I ache all over," moaned Anderson, whose world champion Reds have lost eight of their last nine games to drop into the cellar of the National League West.

The Reds had Sutton on the ropes throughout, but the crafty veteran avoided the knockout punch. He fired a seven-hitter, stranding nine Reds baserunners.

"It is like a bank robber pulling off a job and through the police net," crowed Dodger Manager Tommy LaSorda, who has his club off to a stunning 9-2 start.

Ron Cey's two-run homer off Fred Norman in the sixth inning erased a 1-1 tie, helping the Dodgers to their seventh straight victory. Dave Lopes put the Dodgers ahead with a leadoff homer.

Anderson was fit to be tied. He spent the game nervously roaming the rail of the team dugout.

"I'm never up during a game. I haven't been this mad before," said the white-haired manager, perhaps fearing a collapse to match the 1971 disaster. That year, the Reds fell from a World Series participant to a fourth owner of the Oakland A's. And McKinney is glad he called him.

Since putting on Oakland's colorful uniform late in spring training, McKinney has been hitting with authority, and Wednesday he slugged his third home run of the season, leading the A's over the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2.

McKinney also drove in a run with a single, helping the A's break a three-game losing streak.

McKinney is as surprised as anybody about his quick start. Usually, he does not start hitting homers until mid-season. He had 22 last year with Oakland's farm club at Tucson, a season he thought might be his last in organized baseball.

"I was going to quit this season because I hadn't had a real shot with Oakland in three years," said McKinney, who planned to drive a truck in Ohio before the call from Finley.

In other American League games, the Texas Rangers beat the Seattle Mariners 5-2, the Chicago White Sox edged the California Angels 3-2, the Minnesota Twins stopped the Kansas City Royals 3-2, the Detroit Tigers nipped the Boston Red Sox 3-2, the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Cleveland Indians 7-2 and the New York Yankees outscored the Toronto Blue Jays 7-5.

Rangers 5, Mariners 2

Dave May and Toby Harrah smashed home runs, leading Texas over Seattle. May hit a two-run homer in the third inning. Harrah collected his fourth homer of the season. Seattle's Juan Bernhardt also smashed his fourth homer of the year, a solo shot in the fifth.

White Sox 3, Angels 2

Eric Soderholm reached base four straight times against Nolan Ryan on three hits and a walk, leading Chicago over California. Soderholm, who sat out the 1976 season with a knee injury, collected two singles, homered and drove in a run.

Ryan struck out six, regaining the American League knockout lead from teammate Frank Tanana. He walked seven, however. White Sox starter Chris Knapp also walked seven.

Twins 3, Royals 2

Utilizing five double plays and solo homers by Larry Hise, Dan Ford and Craig Kusick, Minnesota nipped Kansas City. Hise and Ford tagged starter Paul Splittorff with successive homers, giving the Twins a 2-0 lead in the third.

Mark Littell, 1-1, relieved Splittorff in the eighth, and with two out, Kusick lofted a shot over the left field fence.

Tigers 3, Red Sox 2

Veteran Rusty Staub and rookie Steve Kemp lined solo homers off Boston's Luis Tiant, helping Detroit beat the Red Sox. Detroit right-hander Vern Riffe, 2-1, earned his first victory over the Red Sox since Sept. 29, 1974, his rookie season, with eighth-inning relief help from Steve Foucault and John Hiller.

Orioles 2, Indians 2

Doug DeCinces rapped a two-run first-inning homer off Wayne Garland, a former teammate who defected to Cleveland for a lucrative free agent contract, and Baltimore went on to defeat the Indians.

Rookie Scott McGregor, making his first start of the season against his more celebrated rival, needed eighth-inning relief from Dennis Martinez as the Orioles notched their fifth straight victory and completed a three-game sweep of the Indians.

Yankees 7, Blue Jays 5

Willie Randolph hit his first home run in more than a year and Don Gullett notched his first American League triumph as New York snapped a fivegame losing streak by defeating Toronto.

Gullett, who signed with the Yankees after playing out his option with the World Champion Cincinnati Reds, allowed three runs and six hits in the first three innings, then held the Blue Jays hitless until they chased him with two runs on three hits in the eighth.

Westfall Track Has Young Squad

Coach Randy Williams looks to a sophomore-laden Westfall track squad this season and says he has faith that the younger men will learn quickly and develop into a fine group of performers.

Twelve sophomores are listed on the squad, along with two freshmen, four juniors, and four seniors.

The sophomores include Tom Adams, Ken Curry, Joe Trapp, Eric Miller, Gary Phelps, Dennis Carson, Rodney Grambo, Rod Gaa, Gary Garton, Ricky DeVault, Danny Riffle, and J. C. Gantz. For Carson, this season marks his first involvement with track and field, and Williams is pleased with his performance so far. Grambo is coming back after a kidney infection, and had a slow start at the beginning of the season.

Freshman members of the thinclads include Duane Roberts and Troy Stonerock. Williams hopes these men develop and add to the strength of the next few years.

Juniors Earl Curry, Darren Metzger, Mark Kessler, and Dan Bowsher contribute to the program also. Curry is one of the Mustangs' shot-putters and discus men, along with Kessler.

Seniors providing the leadership of this year's team are Phil Scott, described by Williams as a good distance man, and Larry Bilek, Greg Damron, and Thad Howell.

The long jump usually finds Bilek, Scott, and Adams participating, and Bilek and Adams are also in the high jump.

Joining Earl Curry and Kessler are Curry's brother Ken and Roberts. The Currys, Bilek, Kessler, and Roberts make up the discus entry for the Mustangs.

Don Bowsher is the Mustangs' pole vaulter. Adams, Trapp, and Miller are the triple sophomore entry in the high hurdles, and Trapp, Miller, and Gartin go in the low hurdles.

Damron, Phelps, and Metzger are the 100 yard sprinters in the Scarlet and Gray uniforms this season, and Carson, Grambo, and Gaa make up another triple sophomore entry in the mile run.

Five men vie for the four positions of the 880 yard relay team. They are Metzger, Phelps, Bilek, Damron, and Miller.

Howell, Bowsher, and Gartin are the quarter mile entries, and Howell doubles as an 880 yard runner. Joining him in the half mile are Grambo and Carson.

Phelps, Metzger, and Damron return for the 220 yard dash, and they are joined by Gaa.

Two milers for the Mustangs include Phil Scott, DeVault, Riffle, Gantz, and Stonerock. Metzger, Miller, Adams, Phelps, Damron, and Bilek vie for slots on the mile relay team.

Managers for the Mustang tracksters include Sandy Drummond and Lee Bowser, and statisticians are Sherry Mullins and Tina Galloway.

Says Coach Williams about his squad, "We are very optimistic about our possibilities. Since the bulk of our squad consists of sophomores, a lot will depend on how quickly they gain experience. We are going to have a first rate team though."

The remainder of the Westfall track schedule is as follows:

April 21 Bishop Flaget

April 26 Logan Elm

April 28 at Zane Trace

April 30 at Unioto Relays

May 3 Western

May 7 SVC Meet at Southeastern

May 9-14 Sectional meet at Circleville

May 23 Pickaway County Meet at Circleville

Trace Pulls Out 6-5 Win At Westfall

Zane Trace scored a run in the top of the eighth inning to pull out a 6-5 Scioto Valley Conference win over Westfall Wednesday.

Westfall bounded out to a 3-0 lead after three innings, but Zane Trace fought back with two runs in the fourth frame and one in the fifth.

After the Mustangs scored twice in the bottom of the fifth inning, Trace countered with two in the top of the sixth to set the stage for the extra-inning win.

Terry French was the Trace winner, allowing 13 hits while striking out seven batters.

The Mustang loser was Tony Simon, who was touched for 12 hits. He walked two batters and fanned four.

Larry Street collected a homerun and two singles for Zane Trace, French had a single and a triple, Hinton collected a single and a double, and Terry Street, Ireton, and Brian Kerns had doubles.

For Westfall, Rick Stillings, Randy Adams, Mark Henson, and Neil Keller stroked a single and double each, Dave Clem and Carey Puckett had two singles apiece, and Dave Howard had a single.

The Mustangs, owners of a 1-6 season mark and 0-4 slate in the SVC, will return to league play tonight when they travel to Huntington in a 4:30 p.m. contest.

Tiger Girls Win, 8-7

The Circleville Girl's Softball team edged the Pickerington Tigers by an 8-7 count Wednesday.

Lisa Jones was the winning pitcher. Working on the hill, she allowed the seven runs on 13 hits, and struck out one batter.

At the plate, the Tigers picked up a pair of singles from Susan Radcliff, and a single from Becky Peters, Melissa Allison, Wanda Boyd, Penny Perkins, Michelle Nolan, Faith Redman, Kathy Morehart, Lisa Jones, and Karen Lundberg. Allison also rapped a double, and in addition to her single, Becky Peters smashed a double and a three bagger.

The Tigers have now run their record to a perfect 4-0 slate, and are 1-0 in the South Central Ohio League. They travel to Miami Trace Friday to take on the Panthers.

Pirates Turn Back Expos, 8-6

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The Montreal Expos' latest loss cannot be blamed on Gary Carter. Carter slammed three home runs, but they weren't enough to prevent the Pittsburgh Pirates from snapping their three-game losing streak with an 8-6 triumph over the Expos Wednesday.

"Unfortunately we lost and that doesn't make it a good day," Carter said.

But after thinking about his feat, he added: "I'm very thrilled about my effort and thankful for a lot of things. It's a good day and it's probably not going to come back for a long time, so I'm going to dwell on it for a while."

Two-run homers by Phil Garner and Dave Parker led the Pirates' attack. In other National League games Wednesday, Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 3-1, St. Louis downed New York 4-2, Atlanta blanked San Diego 2-0 and San Francisco nipped Houston 1-0.

The game between the Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs was rained out after 4½ innings with the Phils leading 2-1.

Dodgers 3, Reds 1
For pitcher Don Sutton, beating Cincinnati was like being an over-matched boxer. "I felt like Carmen Basilio waltzing my way past Muhammad Ali," said Sutton after scattering seven hits and defeating the Reds for the first time since July, 1975.

Home runs by Dave Lopes and Ron Cey provided all of the runs needed by Sutton, who weathered several Cincinnati threats in pitching the Dodgers to their seventh straight victory. It was the Reds' eighth loss in their last 10 games.

Cardinals 4, Mets 2
Ted Simmons drove in all four St. Louis' runs as the Cards defeated New York behind Eric Rasmussen.

Simmons clobbered a three-run homer and a run-scoring single off loser Jon Matlack. Bruce Boiesclair hammered a two-run homer in the ninth for New York.

Braves 2, Padres 0
A home run by Jeff Burroughs was enough to give Atlanta its victory over San Diego and the Padres' Cy Young Award-winning left-hander, Randy Jones. The Braves added an insurance run in the sixth when Gary Matthews doubled and Rod Gilbreath drove him home with a single.

Winner Andy Messersmith held San Diego to just four hits in seven innings before leaving the game with a muscle cramp in his left side.

Giants 1, Astros 0
Three San Francisco pitchers combined to hurl a four-hitter and Rob Andrews singled home the game's lone run as the Giants defeated Houston. It was Houston's fifth straight defeat.

Pinch hitter Terry Whitfield singled leading off the Giants' eighth, was sacrificed to second and scored on Andrews' single.

Ed Halicki pitched the first seven innings for San Francisco, giving up all four Astros hits. Randy Moffitt came on in the eighth and Gary Lavelle in the ninth.

Tackle Box: Angler's Briefcase

By JIM DAUBEL
For The Associated Press

The tackle box is the angler's briefcase, except for most of us there's nothing brief about it.

As tackle accumulates, we tend to graduate to larger and larger boxes. Ultimately, if we fish often and for a variety of species, we end up toting around a small tackle shop.

Moreover, the tackle industry encourages us.

One manufacturer, Plano of Illinois, makes a box that weighs 12 pounds empty. Another, Vlcek Plastics of Middlefield, Ohio, sells a box with 96 slide-out compartments for lures and assorted tackle.

If you're a tournament bass fisherman you may need a specialized box that will carry every conceivable hook and line you're ever likely to need.

But if you're an average angler, a generalist, you'll find that thinking small about boxes pays big dividends in convenience.

For years I lugged a huge aluminum box jammed with the basic tackle for every freshwater species from perch to salmon. More esoteric gear stayed home in several smaller boxes I had acquired over the years.

Never mind that I rarely fished for, say, trout and perch on the same outing. But I was prepared if that opportunity ever arose.

The big box was a pain to pack along on family outings. It took up a great deal of space in small boats, always seemed to be in the way and was forever getting dumped, dropped or thumped in some awkward situation.

No more. In a flush of pre-season enlightenment, it occurred to me: Why not reverse the arrangement? Transfer the often-used tackle into smaller traveling boxes and leave the biggest one at home as a catch-all.

I added one new box to my collection of four. It was Vlcek's Adventurer Model 1726, an ideal bass box with lure trays and stand-up arrangers for hard-to-handle spinnerbaits.

That becomes my traveling box for largemouth and smallmouth bass fishing.

Another box of approximately the same size is filled with tackle for panfish and walleye fishing. Because most of my walleye chasing is done on Lake Erie, this box also has been stocked with the essentials for white bass and smallmouth fishing on the big lake.

A third smaller box contains spoons and spinners for steelhead and salmon plus all the flyfishing paraphernalia necessary for trout fishing.

The fourth and smallest box now carries flyfishing bugs and poppers for bass and panfish.

Divisions of tackle will depend on personal fishing interests but already I've noted the extra convenience of specialized boxes in terms of easier handling, packing and general portability.

A compromise of sorts between one mammoth box and several smaller ones is Vlcek's new "Cartridge Loader." A relatively large box, it contains nine removable smaller boxes, each designed to carry various sized lures or miscellaneous tackle. Extra removable boxes are available if greater capacity and flexibility are preferred.

Trail Blazers Edge Denver; Win 101-100

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sometimes the best plays are the ones that don't work.

Maurice Lucas saw a play break down in the closing seconds of Portland's National Basketball Association playoff game against Denver Wednesday night, but he knew exactly what to do.

"I looked for Dave Twardzik at the top of the key," Lucas said, "but I didn't see him. So I just took it one-on-one."

Lucas worked in close, then spun and tossed up a turn-around jumper from 14 feet with 11 seconds left in the game. It went in, giving the Trail Blazers a 101-100 victory over the Nuggets in the opener of their best-of-seven quarter-final series.

"The last play that Luke scored on was not designed for him specifically," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay. "But Twardzik got tangled up and Luke just made a great offensive play."

U.S. Football Teams Set European Tour

NEW YORK (AP) — Two semi-professional American football teams will tour Europe to play a five-game series for the fledgling Intercontinental Football League this summer.

The Iowa Nite Hawks and the Chicago Lions, both members of the Northern States Football League, leave in June for the series in Austria, Germany and France.

Organizers of the league hope the tour signals the start of increased interest in American football overseas.

"There has been a drastic and dramatic decline in soccer interest in Europe," explained Bob Kap, founder of the IFL. "It does not relate to the people anymore."

There are empty stadiums for many soccer games throughout Europe and that is the reason Kap and Carroll Catler, president of the IFL, believe that American-style football will be a hit there.

"What do they need with soccer, when they can have American football?" said Kap.

Last year, the IFL imported two college teams, Henderson State and Texas A&I for three games in Europe. Playing in West Berlin, Vienna and Paris, the two college teams averaged better than 20,000 fans per game. The contest in Austria drew 30,000, more than doubling the combined attendances of seven professional soccer games played in the country that day.

Kap, who once coached the Dallas Tornado of the North American Soccer League, thinks American football can't miss on the continent.

"I'll tell you what," he said. "I'll take American football in Europe and you can have European soccer in the United States. We'll see who has more success."

Eventually, Catler and Kap would like to see a self-sustaining European league consisting of perhaps a half dozen local teams including some American players, just as Japanese baseball teams use ex-major leaguers from the United States.

In other NBA games Wednesday night, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Golden State Warriors 115-106 and gained a 1-0 lead in their quarter-final series, while the Philadelphia 76ers tied their series with the Boston Celtics at 1-1 with a 113-101 triumph.

The other quarter-final series resumes tonight with Washington, leading 1-0, at Houston.

The loss was particularly painful for Denver because it came on the Nuggets' home court, where they had lost only five games all season.

Denver reeled off 10 straight points at the start of the fourth quarter for an 81-77 lead and was ahead 98-95 with two minutes to play. But Denver star David Thompson missed two free throws and Twardzik scored for Portland, then Thompson threw the ball away and Lucas scored, putting the Blazers in front.

Toledo Defeats Fort Wayne, 6-5

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Dave Johnson's goal in the first overtime period gave Toledo a 6-5 victory over the Fort Wayne Komets and a one-game lead in their best-of-seven International Hockey League southern division playoff series.

The game Wednesday night was tied at 2-2 at the end of the first period, and 3-3 at the end of the second. In the third period, Johnson scored twice, making it 5-3, and Fort Wayne rebounded to come within one point of the Goaldiggers.

Greed Endangering Baseball?

NEW YORK (AP) — Within the next two or three years, barring an unexpectedly sharp return to sanity, the baseball superstar will be making between $300,000 and $600,000 a year and the average starter will be in the $200,000 bracket.

A half-dozen clubs, facing bankruptcy, will be ready to toss in the towel.

This is the paradoxically mind-boggling yet bleak picture being painted today by a man who acknowledges that his craft is at the root of this lopsided situation threatening the very foundations of big-time professional sports.

"Greed and avarice have got us into this fix," admits Bob Woolf, a youthful, live-wire Bostonian who was the pioneer in the flourishing profession of player management.

"The danger is tremendous."

Woolf, 49, a native of Portland, Maine, graduate of Boston College and Boston University Law School, is a lawyer. The sports world knows him better as an agent. He is identified by an inevitable black satchel. He sits in the smokefilled rooms of team executives and hammers out contracts for today's athletic heroes.

He has lectured on college campuses — including Harvard — and only recently set forth his misgivings in a book entitled "Behind Closed Doors."

"I have lived through the demise of the World Football League and the American Basketball Association. I have seen franchises fold in the World Hockey Association," he says.

"I have seen superstars become instant millionaires, but for every one of these fortunate men I have seen dozens of others, men of great talent, forced into idleness — their skills and lives wasting away."

"They are all dressed up with no place to go. The market has been drained by the salary explosion."

Woolf contends much of the blame can be traced directly to agents and lawyers who have grubbed for everything they can get without regard for the industry.

"Leave a little on the table — that's my theory," he adds. "What do you gain if you make excessive demands and kill off the source? It's not good business practice."

Woolf is concerned not only with the greed of some of his cohorts but also their gall. "Some even try to dictate that their clients have special starting and playing privileges," he said.

Unrealistic as some salaries are, Woolf said he fails to understand the resentment they generate among the fans.

"People think nothing of Frank Sinatra or Sammy Davis getting $100,000 for a single night's performance," he said. "Or Paul Newman getting $4 million for a movie. Sports have become show business. The athletes are matinee idols."

"You tired of payin' the big buck for havin' your car fixed?"

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Children and young people who enjoy learning more about famous people will find this a profitable week to visit the public library. The Children's Room has six new biographies covering famous figures from the world of sports, music, and history.

If you would like to see what goes into the graceful performances of figure skaters, reach for "Women in Sports: Figure Skating" in our sports section. Including the 1976 Olympics, this up-to-date book summarizes the history and growth of figure skating, explains the required maneuvers of competitive skating, and presents brief biographies of Peggy Fleming, Janet Lynn, Karen Magnussen, Dianne de Leeuw, and Dorothy Hamill. (79¢)

Stroll over to our general biographies where you'll find "The Osmonds" and "Elvis Presley." From Creative Education's "Rock'n Pop Stars" series, these books are designed to encourage reading at the upper elementary and junior high school level and feature extra wide margins, colorful illustrations and covers, and large print.

Easy enough for third graders to handle but substantial enough to help older children with history reports is "George Washington" by Susan Lee. In 45 pages of text, there are 26 colored drawings and, again, large type and wide margins create an inviting format for young or reluctant readers.

For a different approach to historical biography don't miss "George Washington" and "Abraham Lincoln," two titles that we're trying from Devco's "All-Pictorial Presentations." What makes this series so special is that a comic-book format is used to present historical facts. Time lines, maps, and glossaries in the backs of these books provide lots of useful information, but the stories themselves are complete and accurate. Reading these "comics" could be a fun way to learn history and practice reading skills!

Our final offering for this week is a collective "biography" which charts the lives — not of people, but of "real" monsters which some people believe may exist in the world today. Featured are sea monsters, Bigfoot, Yeti, and others. (59¢)

Don't forget to view our exhibit of art contributed by children and young people from our local schools. Also, take a moment to enjoy an exhibit prepared for the Children's Room by Mrs. Cheryl Miller's 4th grade class at Jackson Elementary School. They have drawn replicas of bookcovers of Newbery Award Winners and Honor Books.

See all of the art work and our new books when you come to Movie Hour this Saturday at 2:00, when we'll feature the Walt Disney movie "The Hound that Thought He Was a Raccoon." No admission fee!

Food Alert Sees Beef Plentiful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has issued a monthly "food marketing alert" to consumers, which does not include exactly the kind of menu items favored today by Food Day participants.

For example, the latest USDA report sent to food editors and large-volume food buyers such as schools, hospitals and other institutions says there will be "plentiful" supplies of beef, pork and dairy products next month.

According to USDA definition, plentiful means "more than enough for requirements" during a given month. Adequate means "enough to meet needs," and light means "less than adequate, not enough for normal needs."

The idea behind a national Food Day is that Americans are not eating properly and too often load up on too much fat, sugar and other ingredients that Food Day supporters say are too bad for you.

In fact, strict adherents of Food Day eating favor vegetable dishes and no meat.

According to the USDA alert report issued Wednesday, beef supplies in May will be at "approximately the record levels" of a year ago. Pork shoppers will find 18 to 20 per cent more available than a year ago.

In a "special" note on dairy products, the department said milk production has continued to gain and will be near its seasonal peak in May. Supplies of butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk are way up from a year ago.

Grange News

WASHINGTON GRANGE
Lydia DeLong, worthy master, presided over the regular business meeting of Washington Grange held April 12. Routine business was conducted and reports were presented by the various committees.

The program was in charge of the CWA committee, Diana Lands, chairman. The baking and sewing contests were held. The first place for fresh apple bars went to Ethyl Rinehart, second to Luella Bolender and third to Pat Rickard.

In the sewing contest for a wrap-around skirt first place went to Myra Rinehart and second place to Ethyl Rinehart.

A film strip was presented showing results of the 1974 National Grange Sewing contest and a trip through the Simplicity Pattern factory.

The main feature of the program was a play with the following men acting as models: F. R. Lands II, F. R. Lands, Ralph DeLong, Kenneth Rinehart, Kenneth Rickard, Ron Chesser, Richard Ewing and Eric Rickard.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Lands and Mr. and Mrs. Walton Spangler.

Brazil Closes Book On Bormann

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The Brazilian government announced this week that it was giving up the search for the most hunted Nazi war criminal, Martin Bormann. But West Germany closed the books on Hitler's phantom deputy four years ago.

Brazil's attorney general said the Supreme Court shelved West Germany's 1967 request for Bormann's extradition because there was no evidence he was in the country.

"I didn't even know we had a request out for his extradition," said a spokesman for the West German Foreign Ministry.

Another spokesman couldn't remember who Bormann was.

Bormann in the days of the Third Reich was the least known of Hitler's men and the most powerful. He stayed out of the limelight that Goering, Goebbels and Himmler courted. But he ran the Nazi party and through it the country, managed Hitler's private life and his fortune and was the Fuehrer's closest aide, adviser and associate.

He emerged from Hitler's shadow to become the target of a worldwide search for nearly three decades, the only one of the major war criminals arraigned at Nuernberg who could not be found. Over the years there were thousands of reports that he had been

More Cotton Fiber Use Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department analysts think cotton producers will see improved use of their fiber in the coming year, particularly if they plant as many acres as recently indicated.

"Prospects for more robust general economic activity during 1977 bode well for U.S. textile fiber consumption," the department's Outlook and Conservation Board said Wednesday.

But for now a shrunken supply of U.S. cotton has meant high prices and is leading to further competition from manmade fibers, officials said. By next Aug. 1, the U.S. cotton reserve may be around 2.8 million bales, down from 3.7 million last summer and the smallest since 1952.

The report said high cotton prices, which currently are about 25 cents a pound more than man-made fiber, will encourage further substitution of synthetics by textile mills.

However, with larger cotton supplies signalled for 1977-78, mill use of the natural fiber "will likely bounce back" later in the season.

Farmers, according to April 1 surveys, indicated they will plant 13.7 million acres to cotton this spring, an increase of two million acres from last year.

The report said some shift in the April 1 plantings survey could occur, however.

The shift could occur partly because of "intense price competition" from soybeans in the Mississippi Delta and in the Southeast. Also, there is "a great deal of uncertainty" about cotton planting in California, where irrigation water shortages may restrict plantings.

seen. They all proved false or inconclusive. An Italian monk, a Guatemalan farmer and a German emigrant to Colombia were among those mistaken for the missing man.

The most recent Bormann stir was caused by Ladislav Farago, a best-selling author and former U.S. intelligence agent. In November, 1972, in a series of newspaper articles he reported that the missing man was living in South America and had been photographed as he crossed into Argentina from Chile. An Argentine school teacher, Rudolfo Nicholas Siri, later identified himself as the man in the photograph. Siri was 54 at the time; Bormann would have been 72.

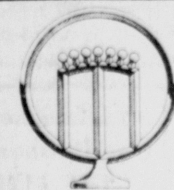

The West German government declared Bormann officially dead in 1973 after two skeletons were found during excavation of a construction site in Berlin.

Frankfurt Attorney General Horst Gauf announced: "Martin Bormann died on May 2, 1945, between 1 and 3 a.m. on the Invalidenstrasse railroad bridge in Berlin a short time after his accomplice Adolf Hitler."

Gauf said one skeleton was Bormann's, the other was that of Hitler's doctor, Ludwig Stumpfegger, who was known to have tried to break through the Russian lines with Bormann.

Last February an American expert, Dr. Reidar F. Sognnaes of the University of California at Los Angeles, reported he matched the Bormann skull "tooth by tooth and crown by crown" to the Nazi leader's dental charts and he believed the identification conclusive.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Ask, if in doubt, but do not become unsettled at every sign of complexity. In general, hold the line against wavering and lack of confidence.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Slow down for a better look at your involvements. Don't spend money before you have it, but don't fear a competitive try at something new, or turn down good investments.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your ambitious, enterprising self can take a real fling now. You are in a position to make fine gains — material and otherwise.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Planetary influences now warn against misleading statements, deceit and dubious schemes. Be alert, and counteract with your innate honesty and good judgment.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Unusual situations will now call for top-flight performance. Sudden shifts in circumstances should not deter you from pursuing meaningful goals. Just keep plugging.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Make preliminary plans subject to final touch-up on Monday. Thus get the jump on time pressures. Exercise patience, forethought, no matter how tight your schedule.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23):

30. Livestock

REGISTERED Duroc boars. Priced reasonably. Steve Davis, 474-8035.

Bag that prize — but with your Sign's usual integrity and forthright effort. Stabilize personal relationships; strengthen the peacekeeper's role.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You can be very thrifty, or too extravagant; can indulge other extremes, also, if not alert to this tendency now. Look for that "middle road" and stick to it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You have an exceptionally good planetary set-up yet must still toe the line in order to avoid friction with those who are not in so comfortable a position.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Better-than-average prospects, but you will have to grasp the good things firmly, and quickly put aside the undesirable. Use your best judgment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Harmony and self-control needed now. Don't antagonize those in a position to help you. Aim to improve ideas and methods.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Wade through possible difficult issues, or relax in the pressureless periods. Whichever, you will need these traits: imagination, ability to see the humorous side of situations.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a great love of the arts and the talents required to succeed in almost any of them. Your appreciation of color and symmetry may lead you to take up painting either as a career or an avocation which, in either case, would bring success and happiness. You couple a gift for organization with love of fellowman; may, therefore, take up "causes" and, whether along political, sociological or religious lines, could be an inspiring leader in the institutions promoting them. While a great lover of tradition and heritage, you also "keep up with the times" and, if engaged in business, are most progressive in your methods. As an historian or archeologist, you would be an outstanding success. Other fields suited to your talents: education, botany, music, sculpture. Birthdate of: Queen Isabella, of Spain; Immanuel Kant, renowned German philosopher; Henry Fielding, English novelist.

Flying Gemini

Wins At Lebanon

CINCINNATI (AP) — Flying Gemini captured the $1,100 featured pace mile by a neck in 2:07 4-5 Wednesday night at Lebanon and paid $14.40, $5 and 5.

Miss Robbie Bay was second, $5.80 and $5.20 and Caramel B, third, $4.20.

Bill B Good and Magnificent Mickey, 4-4, paid $61 in the double and the crowd of 1,323 bet $121,204.

Woodrow Wilson's full name was Thomas Woodrow Wilson.

Optometrist Musical Hobbyist

DENNISON, Ohio (AP) — By day, Dr. John Romig earns his living as an optometrist. By night he enjoys life as a luthier.

To the layman, a luthier makes stringed instruments.

Romig makes classical guitars. He's been trying to play the guitar off and on for 20 years but said he never got past page one of book one in his instruction.

Three years ago, during a visit to Williamsburg, Va., he watched craftsmen making guitars by hand. "I talked to them and told myself I could probably do it if I figured out how," he said.

Back home, he started research. The library ordered an instruction book for him.

He already had some woodcarving tools but found he had to fabricate other tools. One was a device to cut the sound hole and another for edging the binding. His only power equipment is a saw but he found it of little value in making guitars.

All the work is done with hand tools — a coping saw, hand plane, sandpaper, chisels and glue. The only metal pieces on his guitars are the tuning machines in the neck.

One of his problems is finding the right wood.

He makes the backs of the sound boxes of East Indian or Brazilian rosewood. He prefers Bavarian spruce for the top but said scarcity often forces the substitution of western red cedar, cyprus or maple. He likes Honduras mahogany for the necks.

Even with the small amount of wood needed for a guitar, he said the simplest models often cost $150-$200.

Romig builds guitars upside-down, starting with the top, or front, of the sound case. He starts with fronts and backs of matching size in 1/4 inch boards. By the time he is through with them, they are planed, chiseled and sanded to a 3-32 inch front and a 1/8 inch back.

The rosewood sides are trimmed to 1-16 inch, soaked in boiling water for an hour or so before shaping. Soaking makes the wood flexible.

He has a lot of mistakes lying around his shop, saying "Those are abortive attempts we won't go into."

But with the cost of wood he says he can't afford to be too careless.

Gluing the pieces becomes an intricate process. Some glue joints have to set up for several weeks before he can proceed. Haste or impatience at that point, he said, frequently means disaster.

Another critical point comes with binding along the edges. It ranges from simple plastic strips to exotic abalone shell.

Seminars Readied
During Summer

YELLOW SPRINGS (AP) — Four seminars for published and aspiring writers will be held during the summer at Antioch College, sponsored by the literature department and the Antioch Review.

The second annual Rod Serling writing seminars begin July 18. Each includes seven days of meetings, round table discussions and evaluations, with time reserved for individual conferences.

Serling, whom the seminars commemorate by the wish of his family, was best known as the creator and narrator of television's "Twilight Zone." The Antioch graduate died in 1975.

"The luthier can really express himself here," said Romig. He set out to make five guitars and said he learns more with each one. Each becomes an experiment to see what slight variations mean to the sound.

"I don't ever expect to play them very well," he said. "But I'd rather make them anyhow. It's more fun."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Broadcast pioneer William S. Paley has taken the first step toward loosening the tight control he's had over CBS since it was founded in 1928.

He said Wednesday that he plans to step down as the company's chief executive officer and will recommend to CBS directors on May 11 that John D. Backe, president of CBS, Inc., be named his successor.

But does he think he'll ever step down as board chairman?

"Yes, of course I will," said the man who took a 16-station radio network, named it CBS and built it into an empire that last year had 30,000 employees worldwide and net sales of $2.2 billion.

But he only grinned when asked if he'll retire as chairman.

"I don't know," said Paley, 75. "It might be that I get interested in something else I want to try, it could be a lot of things."

"But it's awfully hard for me to imagine not being interested in CBS as a corporation as long as my mental faculties remain at least normal, as well as my physical frame and what's in it."

Tanned and fit-looking, Paley spoke in a brief interview after addressing the annual CBS shareholders' meeting, held this year at CBS' production center in nearby Studio City.

There, he reaffirmed his decision — first announced in October — to step down as chief executive officer of CBS, Inc., in which capacity he made day-to-day decisions on the operation of the company.

CBS, Inc. owns not only the CBS radio and television networks, but also Columbia Records and other divisions that publish books, operate retail stores and make musical instruments.

Backe, the 43-year-old executive, came from a publishing, not a broadcasting background. Backe, who joined CBS in 1973, became the company's second most powerful man when his predecessor, Arthur R. Taylor, abruptly resigned last Oct. 13 after four years on the job.

Taylor, chief architect of television's so-called "family hour," never has said why he quit his $480,000-a-year job, but CBS sources attribute it to a personal conflict with the strong-willed Paley. Still, Taylor's action surprised the industry.

Fifteen months earlier, Paley, seeking to rebut a report he and Taylor weren't getting along, issued a statement saying he'd "be greatly pleased to have 'him' (Paley) as my successor."

Taylor, CBS' chief executive officer since 1928 and its board chairman since 1946, declined on Wednesday to say why he'd changed his mind.

He only said when he told CBS directors last year he'd be retiring as chief executive officer, "I and the board decided that the best person to follow in my footsteps was Mr. Backe."

"And that led to the resignation of Mr. Taylor," Paley was asked if a personal conflict with Taylor had occurred.

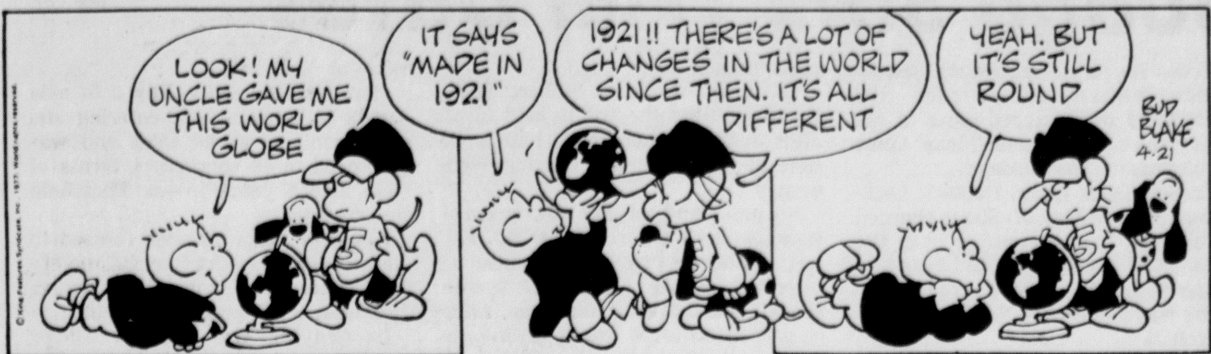

"We decided that Mr. Backe was better suited to follow in my footsteps than Mr. Taylor," he said, declining to elaborate.

Gregorian chants are named for St. Gregory the Great, Pope of the Roman Catholic church in the 6th century.

Judge Sets Trial Dates

Trials by jury were established by Judge William Ammer for five defendants who entered pleas of not guilty during Common Pleas Court arraignments Wednesday.

Trial of Doris Lalik, Route 1, Lockbourne, will be May 27. She is charged with grand theft stemming from the obtaining of excess Aid to Dependent Children and Food Stamp payments.

She was indicted by the Grand Jury March 25.

Trial of James R. Lemaster, 146 Starkey Dr., will be June 17. He was charged with felonious assault Dec. 12 and was indicted by the Grand Jury March 25.

Robert T. Aldenderfer, Columbus, will answer a charge of trafficking in drugs before a jury June 16.

He was arrested March 14 and was indicted by the Grand Jury March 25.

Trial of Jerry Allen Stone, Columbus, has been set for June 16. He was charged March 14 with trafficking in drugs and was indicted by the Grand Jury March 25.

Trial of Forrest C. Murnaw, 227 Walnut St., has been scheduled for June 13.

He was charged Nov. 5 with receiving stolen property and was indicted by the Grand Jury March 25.

Dwight E. Stockwell, a patient at the Orient State Institute, was declared legally insane by Judge Ammer, who ordered him returned to the Lima State Hospital until his sanity is restored.

Stockwell, charged Feb. 9 with the attempted felonious assault of an OSI attendant, pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity March 2.

At that time, Judge Ammer ordered Stockwell to Lima State for a 30-day examination.

The trial of James Robert Hunt, Route 6, Chillicothe, will be held July 5 after Judge Ammer found him to be sane at a preliminary hearing Wednesday.

Not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity pleas entered June 24, 1972, were withdrawn by Hunt's counsel.

He was charged in April, 1972, with breaking and entering and arson. After he was found to be legally insane, he was committed by the Pickaway County Probate Court to Orient State Institute.

Since then, he has been charged and acquitted of murder in Ross County, and is currently under charge in Ross County for aggravated burglary.

Pre-sentence reports were ordered on Gary Martin, Route 188, and Tilden Thompson, Route 1.

Both men appeared on Bills of Information and entered guilty pleas.

Martin was charged May 7 and May 9, 1976, with passing bad checks, and Thompson was charged Dec. 7, 1975 with passing a bad check.

Shock probation was denied by Judge Ammer for Jeffrey Eugene Cox, 19, Columbus, and Robert Timothy Hart, 19, Akron.

Cox pleaded guilty Nov. 10 to three counts of aggravated burglary and three counts of grand theft and was sentenced to three terms of from 4 to 25 years and three terms of from 6 months to 5 years in the Mansfield Reformatory.

In ruling against shock probation, Judge Ammer noted that a large amount of damage was committed with the thefts, that Cox was involved in a burglary in Franklin County, and that he had a disciplinary problem while at Mansfield.

Hart pleaded guilty July 2 to nine counts of breaking and entering and nine counts of grand theft and was sentenced to 18 concurrent terms of from 2 to 5 years in the Mansfield Reformatory.

Although Judge Ammer refused to allow shock probation, he did modify the sentences from two years minimum to 18 months minimum.

In denying the motion, Judge Ammer noted that Hart had been involved in extensive prior criminal activities.

Judge Ammer levied suspended sentences to four defendants.

Alvin Lee Lanthorn Jr., 18, Lockbourne, was placed on probation for three years after Judge Ammer suspended concurrent six month to five year terms in the Mansfield Reformatory.

He was charged with receiving stolen property and grand theft.

In ordering probation, Judge Ammer ruled that Lanthorn must make restitution and must not associate with a co-defendant.

Michael Edward Sparks, 18, Route 1, Lockbourne, was placed on probation for three years after Judge Ammer suspended concurrent one to five year terms in the Mansfield Reformatory.

He was charged with receiving stolen property, grand theft, and escape.

In ordering probation, Judge Ammer ruled that Sparks must make restitution, must not associate with a co-defendant, must stay out of Pickaway County, and must spend 60 days in the Pickaway County Jail.

Joe Michael Boggs, 19, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, was placed on probation for three years after concurrent 6 month to 5 year terms in the Mansfield Reformatory were suspended.

He was charged with breaking and entering and grand theft.

Boggs was ordered to make restitution and to not associate with a co-defendant.

All but 45 days of a six month jail term levied against Ivan Crane, Circleville, were suspended by Judge Ammer.

Crane, who pleaded guilty to assault on a police officer Feb. 22, was found legally sane after a mental examination.

He was ordered to seek alcoholic counseling.

BancOhio Earnings Increase For First Quarter Of 1977

BancOhio's operating earnings for the first quarter of 1977 were $5.9 million, or 81 cents per share, a 10 per cent increase from the $5.4 million, or 74 cents per share, earned in the first quarter of 1976, Robert G. Stevens, chairman, president and chief executive officer of BancOhio Corporation announced today.

Net income, after securities transactions, was $5.8 million or 80 cents per share, an increase of 7.8 per cent over the 5.4 million or 74 cents per share for the same period in 1976.

The Corporation's interest rate differential or spread (the difference between the yield on earning assets and the rate paid on interest-bearing liabilities — primarily deposits) narrowed slightly in the first quarter. However, the decline in the rate earned was more than offset by the $279.2 million increase in average earning assets. As a result, tax equivalent net interest income increased 9.8 per cent to $32.1 million for the first quarter of 1977. Commercial loans outstanding, which averaged $543 million in the first quarter of 1976, increased 13.2 per cent to an average of $614 million for the first quarter of 1977.

Consumer installment loans, although adversely affected by the severe weather in the early months of the quarter, increased 10.9 per cent to $503.6 million and real estate loans, primarily home mortgages, increased by 13.4 per cent. Total average savings and time deposits continued their strong growth pattern of 1976 with an increase of $217.2 million of which $171.5 million was in consumer savings deposits.

The provision for loan losses decreased from $3.0 million in the first quarter of 1976 to $1.9 million in 1977, reflecting a significant reduction in anticipated loan losses for the year. Net loans charged off in the first quarter totaled $1.3 million compared to the $3.6 million charged off in the first quarter of 1976. The reserve for possible loan losses was $16.1 million at the end of March which represented 0.98 per cent of loans outstanding and compared to 0.91 per cent at March 31, 1976.

Purple Socks Misdirected

OREM, Utah (AP) — Hundreds of purple socks rained down on the fruit trees outside town when a publicity stunt for the singing Osmond family went awry.

The Osmonds broke ground Wednesday for a $2.5 million entertainment center they are building to record music, film movies and tape the "Donny and Marie" television show.

An airplane was supposed to drop purple socks — Donny's trademark — on the crowd, but the socks landed in nearby orchards instead.

Despite that setback, Donny took the controls of a bulldozer, and Marie drove a team of Clydesdale horses at the ceremony.

The Osmonds are Mormons, and Donny and Marie are attending Brigham Young University in nearby Provo, a school owned and operated by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

Shield Measure Gains Approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Radio and television newsmen at non-commercial stations would shield the identity of their news sources under legislation approved 31-0 by the House and sent to the Senate Wednesday.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, gives the same protection against disclosure to employees of the public media as is guaranteed commercial broadcasting outlets.

It would extend to 11 public television stations and 62 radio stations exemption from any requirement to disclose in a legal proceeding the source of information obtained in the course of gathering news.

The shield law requires reporters, however, to maintain a record of source information for six months after it is aired.

Pickaway YD's To Be Admitted To Ohio Dems

The Pickaway County Young Democrats held their April meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Billman Wednesday evening.

New member Mike Johnson and special guests, congressional candidate Ted Strickland and Democratic campaigner Fred Porginski, were present.

Various members of the Pickaway Organizational volunteered to attend the Ohio Young Dems Bi-monthly and Regional Convention to be held in Dayton, April 29, 30 and May 1. Pickaway County will be recognized as the newest member to join the Ohio Young Democrats.

The YD's received a contribution from Auditor Margaret Remy and then, made a contribution to the Charles H. Radcliff Pickaway Manor Fund. The late Mr. Radcliff was an honorary member of Pickaway Young Dems.

Future activities planned were a bake sale to be held May 14, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; a combined flea market-garage sale set for June 4 and a dance scheduled for June 11. Further information concerning these activities and other events are available by contacting Bob Bensonhaver at 474-5565.

Pickaway Young Dems is pushing during May and June to increase membership through activity. Once such activity will include the June 15 meeting with Ohio Lieutenant Governor Dick Celeste as the special guest.

The meeting concluded with members listening to President Jimmy Carter's address.

Cancer Crusade Chairman Seeks Responsiveness

Mary Cawley, Ashville chairman of the American Cancer Society Crusade, asked that Ashville be responsive to the Cancer Crusade this week.

Mrs. Cawley said the public should be alert to facts rather than rumor as to where the ACS dollar goes. Forty-five per cent comes back to the county in which it is collected she said.

Mrs. Cawley, who is also serving as president of the Pickaway County Unit this year, said that education has been stressed. She urges organizations to incorporate showing of films which are available. There are films for men only, women, mixed groups and different age groups.

Mrs. Everett Peters, Ashville, the public education chairman, will help organizations obtain the films.

Mrs. Cawley noted the local cancer society has many other services available. Information concerning these services may be obtained by calling 474-3014 or by contacting Mrs. Cawley at 983-4221.

The cancer crusade will be conducted April 23 through May 1. Crusaders will be wearing an identification badge.

As chairman of the crusade, Mrs. Cawley encourages memorians to the cancer society. "In this way you can let someone know you care and make a contribution at the same time," she stated.

The meal was prepared by the Canal Winchester Pythian Sisters.

The next meeting will be Oct. 19 at Harrisburg.

Aging Advisory Council Meeting Held In Columbus

At the Central Ohio Area Agency On Aging Advisory Council Meeting was held in Columbus and chaired by Don Bainter of Fairfield County.

The new officers elected to serve for 1977-78 are Don Parro, chairman, of Union County, Vera Saunders, vice chairman of Pickaway County and Lois Kuhn, Secretary of Franklin County.

Joanne Byrne, special project chairman reported that 500 paintings were sold at the Governors Art Show. She announced the Hall of Fame Banquet to be held May at the Rhodes Center. She stated all 8 counties' plans had been formulated for the Senior Citizens Week in May 15-20th and Senior Citizen Day proclaimed by the Governor, and the Pickaway County Commissioners is May 17 for the State of Ohio and Pickaway County.

Ardath Lynch, administrator of COAOA announced that Federal Funds through the Ohio Commission On Aging had been allocated for Title IX. The funds are to be used to employ those over 55 years of age and older on fixed incomes. It is a 20 hour a week job to be used in service of senior citizens. Pickaway County slots are filled at present, but if the other counties do not use all of their slots, Pickaway County can apply for the slots.

The delegates were given COAOA Advisory Council manuals to update them on procedures.

The delegates attending from Pickaway County were Don Strous commissioner, Mary Clark, Fred Howell, Vera Saunders and alternate Pauline Jones.
